Governor Proclaims Dairy Month

Editor's Note: Governor Casey proclaimed June Dairy Month this week in Harrisburg. Lancaster Farming will do this next week with a special issue. The text of the Governor's proclamation follows. You will need to wait a week for our special tribute.

Pennsylvania's dairy industry makes a vital contribution to the state's economy while its products help to insure all citizen's health and vitality.

Nearly 14,000 dairy farmers are responsible for the well-being of this key industry with large capital investments in some 720,000 dairy cows. Last year the commonwealth's dairy farms and 220 milk processing plants produced nearly 10 billion pounds of milk establishing Pennsylvania as the fifth leading milk-producing state in the nation. Milk production alone contributed over $1.3 billion to our econmoy. Indeed milk is the state's official beverage.

Also, Pennsylvania milk serves as the basic ingredient in many other wholesome foods, which are important to the state. The commonwealth ranks second nationally in the production of ice cream, milk sherbet and frozen dairy products; fourth in Italian variety cheese; fifth in butter and ice milk; and sixth in the manufacture of all varieties of cheese. This food group provides all citizens with a valuable source of nature's most important ingredients such as calcium, protein, and riboflavin. In addition, nearly 40,000 Pennsylvanians are employed in the manufacture and processing of these dairy products.

In recognition of our great dairy industry, I, Robert P Casey,

Guernsey Breeders Convene

BY BETH NESBIT
Indiana Co. Correspondent

PITTSBURGH — In the hustle of America's most livable city last weekend, the American Guernsey Cattle Club was holding its 110th annual convention in the Sheraton Hotel at Station Square. The convention was highlighted by the National Convention and Heifer Sale on Saturday evening.

Convention-goers and spectators gathered in the Sheraton's grand ballroom to witness the selling of 31 quality Guernsey animals. These animals averaged $2,175.

The first lot to enter the sale ring was Yellow Creek Fayette Boone-ET. Consigned by Truman Weaver of Yellow Creek Farm, Goshen, Ind., the bull was born Sept. 2, 1986. The Dutch Mill Telestars Fayette son sold for a final bid of $10,500 to a syndicate representing Tri-State Breeders.

A full sister to Yellow Creek Fayette Boone-ET commanded the top bid for the females. Yellow Creek Fayette Brook-ET was also bred and consigned by Weaver. She sold for $8,250 to Jerry Emrich, Plain City, Ohio, and Michael Hurst and Truman Weaver of Goshen, Ind.

Prospects May Improve For Tobacco Growers

BY JACK HUBLEY

Following anemic prices for the 1986 tobacco crop, planting is off to a slow start in Lancaster County. "Definitely we're going to be cut back in acreage," says Lancaster County Extension director Jay Irwin.

Tobacco proved to be a hot item in 1985, when a newly organized auction system brought buyers and sellers together at a central location for the first time in 40 years, and prices for the Maryland Type 609 tobacco grown here averaged $1.15 per pound.

But one year later dreams for an even better season went up in smoke, with 609 averaging only 45 to 50 cents. Most sources attributed the drop in price to two factors: poorer quality tobacco and a glut of cheap, government-owned burley tobacco left over from the 1983 growing season that soaked up demand for the Pennsylvania crop.

Poorer quality was definitely a factor, according to John Yocum, a tobacco expert at Penn State's Southeast Research Farm located in Landisville. "Our tobacco here at the station was one of the poorest crops we've had in a long time," says Yocum, noting that wind and hail storms shredded much of the leaf.

Two other factors that combined to lower quality were an etch virus that caused a burn-type injury and air pollution. Yocum said ozone and sulfur dioxide are the two air pollutants that spotted leaves at the station.

Farmers And Forests May Benefit From Manure Project

BY JACK HUBLEY

NEW HOLLAND — If, as experts say, livestock manure contains a wealth of nutrients, then Lancaster County is blessed with an embarrassment of riches. The state's leading county in dairy, beef, hog, poultry and egg production, Lancaster also pumps out more than five million tons of manure annually, or enough to fertilize 349,000 acres of cropland.

The problem is that Lancaster County has only 330,000 cropland acres, of which some 53,000 acres are used to grow alfalfa. Practically speaking, that means the county is 72,000 acres short of being able to spread its "wealth" at recommended rates.

So what's a farmer to do with his surplus? The answer to that question may be no farther away than the nearest woodlot, according to Tim Breneisen, of the Lancaster County Conservation District. Not only is 17 percent of Pennsylvania under trees, says Breneisen, but much of Penn's Woods is actually adjacent to cropland, making it a convenient repository for livestock manure. Since much of this forestland is low in nutrients, it follows that manure could boost timber production, Breneisen points out.

With the help of the Department of Environmental Resources' Bureau of Forestry, the district plans to put these theories to the test beginning June 22, when they'll be spraying liquid hog manure on a series of forested test

Opportunities For College Ag Graduates Exceeds Supply

BY SUZANNE KEENE
AND MARTHA J. GEHRINGER

LITITZ — Although the media has been painting a grim picture of the ag economy, this year's college graduates with agriculture degrees face a rosy future in the job market.

"The job situation in agriculture is excellent," reports Dr. Glenn Patterson, acting associate dean of agriculture at the University of Maryland. "A great number of them are finding jobs in their specialty." Even though farmers are having a hard time, the rest of agriculture is thriving and jobs are available, he said.

College officials estimate that 75 to 90 percent of this year's college of ag graduates will find jobs in their area of expertise. Delaware Valley College reported that 100 percent of their 1986 ag graduates who entered the job market within six months of graduation are currently employed or enrolled in graduate school.

Other schools report similar success, with Penn State University estimating 75 to 90 percent placement within three months of graduation and a significantly higher percentage at six months.

Oklahoma Cattle

Thursday, May 28
Report supplied by USDA

Weekly Cattle Summary: Feeder Steers 50 cents to $1.00 higher than last week. Feeder Heifers $1.00-$1.50 higher. Feeder demand good. Slaughter cows largely $1.00 lower. Slaughter bulls $1.00-$2.00 lower. Slaughter cattle demand moderate. Soaking rains throughout trade territory followed by two to eight inches Wednesday, results flooding, roads closed.

Movement of livestock has been hampered, effects expected to last for several days. This was a holiday shortened week with only two cattle auction days. Receipts this week 13,456 head; last week 27,056; last year 15,500. Feeder steers and heifers 95% of supply (93% of these yearlings). Cows and bulls 5% of run. Following quotes are bulk sales for the week.

FUTURES MARKET TRENDS GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK

This market information provided by ACRES ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service (717)761-2740

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans settled higher on strength in meal caused by late commission house buying. Cash movement is slow as farmers wait for another ra lly beforeselling. Gains in meal was attributed to strong commercial buying and meal/oil spreading linked with upcoming export business and rumors of more in the works.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat settled slightly lower with declines limited by late buying in sympathy with a rally in beans. Lower than expected in export inspections cast a barish tone in wheat but was countered by continued trade hopes for a US bonus export to China.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle and feeder cattle futures settled lower pressured by commercial selling late in the session. Buying interest was used up early on sharply higher openings. Higher openings were fueled by sharply higher beef cutout values and active fed cattle trade at higher prices on Tuesday.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Hog futures posted new highs again today with spillover strength from the belly pit where July and Aug. closed limit-up. Continued tight cash supplies and technical support fueled gains in both pits.

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures settled slightly higher with December widening its premium to July with commercial short-covering and bare spreading. Old crop corn rallied mid-session due to light movement. 135 million dollars in generic certificates could come with the wheat disaster bill to be decided on tonight by President Regan.

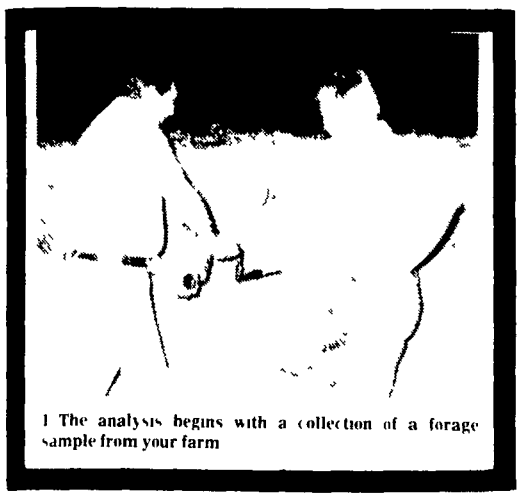
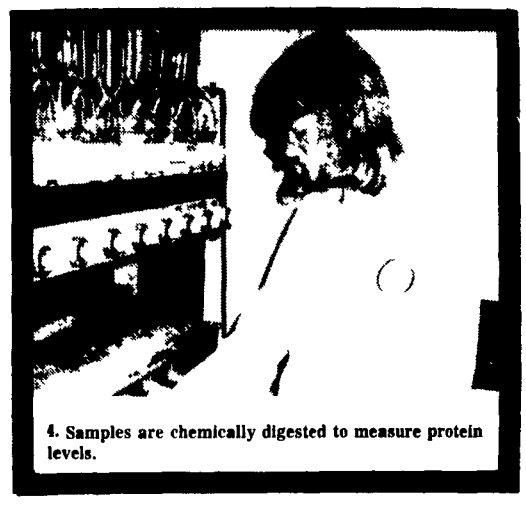
ACCURATE FORAGE TESTING GIVES YOU A MORE RELIABLE DAIRY FEEDING PROGRAM

Not all testing is the same. The accuracy of your results depends on the thoroughness and professionalism of the people performing the analysis, and the precision of the testing equipment used.

In our Technical Services Laboratory, located in Lancaster, we perform more than 5,000 forage analyses a year for farms like yours, in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware. This service enables you to learn the exact nutrient values of your homegrown forages so that we can work with you to develop your best feeding program.



1 The analysis begins with a collection of a forage sample from your farm



4. Samples are chemically digested to measure protein levels.

— PENNFIELD DAIRY PROGRAM PLUSES: —

+ "NO CHARGE" - CERTIFIED FORAGE TESTING LAB. Pennfield's Forage Testing Lab is certified by the NAHTA (National Alfalfa Hay Testing Assoc.)

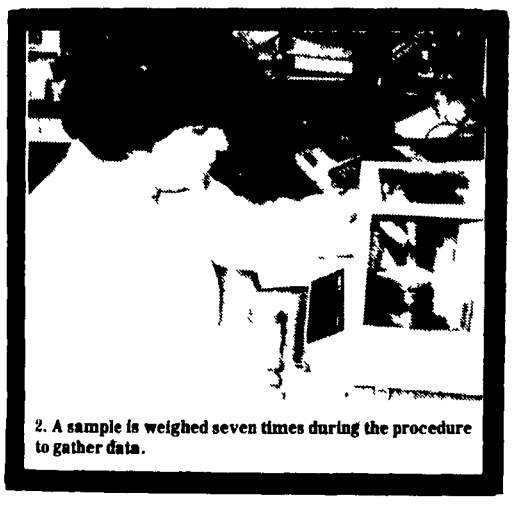
+ Professionally formulated dairy feeding programs.

+ Order dept. open 24 hours per day Monday 5 AM through Saturday 5 AM. Answering service on weekends.

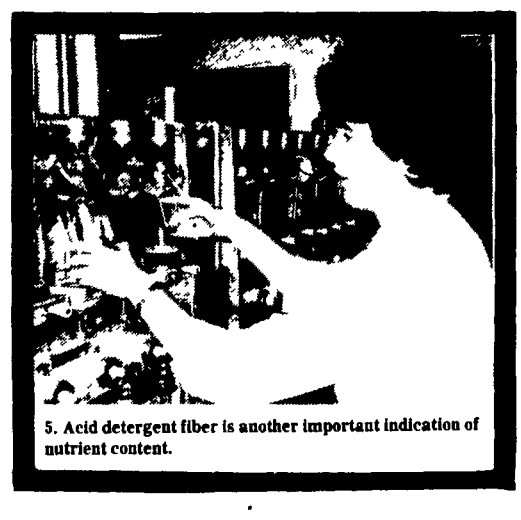
+ Grain exchange program for Corn - Barley - Oats

+ Dairy Terms: 2½% Cash Discount - due 15th of following month.

+ Well trained "Dairy Service Specialists" who can work with you to help solve problems when they occur.

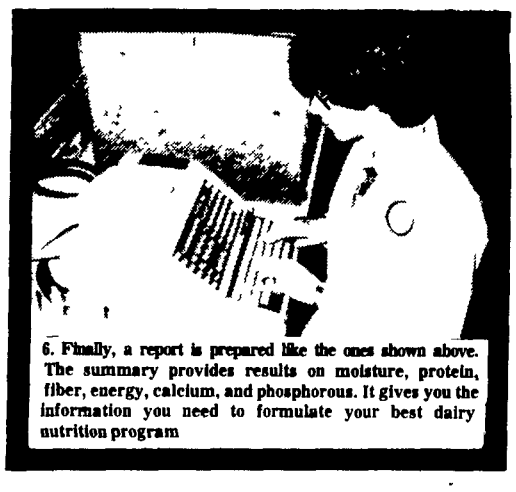


2. A sample is weighed seven times during the procedure to gather data.



5. Acid detergent fiber is another important indication of nutrient content.

3. NIR provides fast and accurate forage results.



6. Finally, a report is prepared like the ones shown above. The summary provides results on moisture, protein, fiber, energy, calcium, and phosphorous. It gives you the information you need to formulate your best dairy nutrition program

OPINION

"Born In America"

We hear a lot about why we should buy "made-in-America" manufactured products. But the makers of cars, TV's, computers and shoes aren't the only people facing competition from foreign imports. Now it's cheese, beef, poultry and vegetables. All of these products can be produced and shipped to the United States less expensively than farmers can produce them here. This is often true because the food producers themselves have invested capital in foreign production areas to get cheaper labor.

But for whatever the reason, for the first time since 1957, the United States will import more foods than it will export. Not only is this disastrous to our American agricultural economy base, the foods we receive are often produced under substandard health controls. Imports of frozen vegetables alone have increased by an average of 26 percent per year from 28,095,000 pounds in 1975 to 121,884,000 pounds 10 years later.

A nonprofit organization called THANKS (Together Helping Americans Nationwide Keep Strong) has registered a seal to be placed on products grown and processed in the United States. We hope this effort is as successful as "Real Seal" has been for the dairy industry. Consumers need to know more about the origin of the foods they buy and eat. "Born In America" is just as important for foods as for cars.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

Thank you for the column on potatoes in your May 23rd issue. As a grower since 1927 when I took over my parents farm specializing in this crop a long time reader of your newspaper, I felt potatoes did not get much recognition. I must admit many growers in our area have quit growing them.

Be that as it may, anyone that knows what it takes to put a meal together would agree they are quite important, both cost wise and nutritionally. So please keep them in mind as time goes on, not only for the growers sake but for the consumer as well.

A little story of my life since 1927 this farm orginally being 72 acres, we now own about 300 acres, which the son operates and rents additional ground. I'm not telling you it was easy because it was not. But if you listen to your buddies and people around you, most everyone thinks what they do is difficult and has its problems.

I tried to improve practices as we went along being handicapped financially because the parents still owed on the mortgage. The second year of operation we changed marketing the crop and by 1939 we ran into a terribly dry season. So in 1941 we built the first pond to store water for irrigation. And as adjoining land became available, we added, using barns to store. This way for some years the weather caught us before we had moved the part which we had trouble keeping warm in frigid weather. This called for a storage we built in 1952.

It is interesting as your article states the different varieties. This is what I am still doing. Trying in a small way the newer varieties. Trying to find something better.

Having been on the board of directors of our county organization for many years and having meetings with the county agent during that period, one keeps from getting too rusty.

Today being my 83rd birthday, I still feel this potato deal is a challenge. Thanking you I am.

To Know About A New Johne's Test

USDA recently licensed a rapid antibody test for cattle showing possible clinical signs of Johne's according to Glenn Shirk, dairy agent. Results of the test are available in 24 to 48 hours. This compares to 2 to 3 months for the more traditional fecal test. This new Johne's test, known as AGID (agar gel immune diffusion), can differentiate Johne's from other diarrheal diseases such as BVD, salmonella and winter dysentry.

There is no evidence of the test showing false positives, so the risk of sending non-infected cattle to slaughter is minimal. False negatives appear to run less than 15 percent. However, the accuracy of the test increases the more clinical a cow becomes.

So, you may miss some "slightly-infected" non-shedders, but you'll have a greater opportunity of identifying the shedders and getting them out of the herd before they have the opportunity to infect other cattle, especially younger animals. This new test is something you should discuss with your veterinarian.

To Be Alert For Corn Pests

We are into the season for cutworm damage and this includes the black cutworm. Just a reminder to keep a close check on all corn fields for the next few weeks. Damage symptoms will be plants cut off just above the ground level. The culprit will be hiding in the soil a few inches from the cut plant. We suggest a rescue treatment of 2 to 3 percent if the plants are cut and you can find more than 5 larvae in 100 plants. Remember the black cutworm is the one with the granular skin. The control materials listed in the 1987-88 Agronomy Guide include Lorsban or Sevin or Dyfonate or Penncap or Dylox. Be sure to follow all label directions.

To Practice Bio-Security

Livestock and poultry diseases continue to be a threat to farmers. I still feel that in too many cases the farmer brings the infection home to his own animals and poultry. Are you careful about the footwear worn when attending the public stock yards or sales barns? Most of these places are an outlet for animals with some infection; the chances of picking up these organisms on your boots or shoes are great. Even though the public places are often disinfected, there is still danger of infection.

We urge farmers to be very careful with their sanitary habits. The same is true when using public trucks to transport animals; be sure they are clean and well disinfected. Don't be guilty of bringing home infection to your own animals.

To Clip Pastures

Mowing permanent pastures at this time of year is a very good idea. Many of the plants will be heading out and some will go to seed; this means that the plants should be mowed. This practice will help control weeds and encourage new growth of grass.

Livestock will consume the dry clippings. Pastures should be clipped several times during the season. In addition, the clipped area will look much better to the general public as they travel through the county.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

LOVING FREELY

May 31, 1987

Background Scripture:
Hosea 13 through 14.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 12.

The young man is in jail again. We're crushed, all of us. During the past year it seemed he was doing so well. This time, we hoped and prayed, he would make it and stay out.

But in the last few months, we began to see his life unravel once again. Like the fabled Dutch boy at the dike, we tried to plug up first this hole, then that, but at last we all ran out of fingers.

We've been praying for this young man for a long time — almost 30 years — and today it all seems to have been in vain. He's behind bars and it will likely be a while before he earns the right to enter the outside world again. After all these failures, we can't help wondering whether it isn't time to give up on him. If this were almost any other human endeavor — building a house, running a race, writing a book — we'd have given up long ago.

But we won't give up: we will continue to hope and pray and believe it is God's will to heal him of all that troubles him. Though our faith has been shaken, we will ask God to restore that faith.

"I WILL HEAL"

Why will we continue to believe in and pray for this man's healing in the face of so much failure? Because God himself is persistent, redeeming love. God continued to pursue Israel with his love long after it seemed impossible that they would ever return to him. Although they failed again and again, although they betrayed him repeatedly, God's love did not waver. "I will heal their faithlessness," proclaimed the Lord, "I will love them freely, for my anger has turned from them" (14:4).

Note that God does not say that he will "overlook" the sins of Israel or pretend that they did not exist. The sins are real and have had terrible consequences. They are not to be "swept under the carpet." God does not minimize the seriousness of the sins of Israel.

God meets the problem of Israel's sin, not by ignoring it, but by overcoming it with his love. "I will heal their faithlessness"— he will give them the power to overcome their infidelity, to change not only their behavior, but their hearts. Because, until our hearts are changed, we cannot change our lives.

"I will love them freely," God says through Hosea. What this means is that his love is not something which Israel can or will earn. If God's love was dependent upon our worthiness, we'd none of us ever experience his love. But the good news is that he offers us this love "freely" as a gift of grace — not something we get because we deserve it, but despite the fact that we don't deserve it.

COME BACK HOME

There's no catch to this freely-given love of God, but there is a requirement: "Return, O Israel, to the Lord your God, for you have stumbled because of your iniquity" (14:1). Just as God freely gives his redemptive love to us, so, too, we must "freely" receive it. "Take with you words and return to the Lord; say to him, "Take away all iniquity; accept that which is good and we will render the fruit of our lips" (14:2). Like the Prodigal Son, we must come to our senses and "come back home."

When we do, we will find him waiting for us with open arms "They shall return and dwell beneath my shadow, they shall flourish as a garden, they shall blossom as the vine..."

And because his love perseveres, so will ours!

HERE ARE COMMENTS OF THREE PROFESSIONALS WHO LIKE BROWN'S

Walnridge Farm

Dr. Tom Kichura, Brown's Nutritionist, reviews yearlings at Concorde Stud Farm with David Meirs III, General Manager, and Charles Hansen, Farm Manager.

I measure performance by how well our horses breed, grow and develop. Dr. Kichura, Brown's Nutritionist, took my ideas on what our yearling and mare feeds should contain, added some of his own and produced a feed that has given us excellent response. Last year over 1000 horses were stabled at Walnridge. In 1986, three of the top rated Standardbred yearlings in the country were developed here. Brown's provides us with a quality product and excellent service.

DAVID MEIRS III

Spring Valley Horse Farm

At Spring Valley we stable over 100 horses. We follow the Appaloosa Horse Show circuit with both amateurs and youth. Our horses range from being in the top ten in the nation to just good trail horses. Brown's Feed is a quality feed that is palatable, dust free and yet low in molasses so that it flows. We travel extensively with our horses and, in spite of the additional stress this creates on our horses, Brown's Feeds keep them in excellent condition.

I've been in the horse business for over 18 years and Brown's is the best feed company I've ever dealt with. I particularly appreciate the extra service their drivers provide.

I have been training horses for ten years. I recently moved to Pennsylvania and established Wenners Circle Farms, a training and breeding stable. I board 35 horses from three states and stand 2 studs including Diamond. I use Brown's Champion, Brown's Sweet Horse and Brown's steam crimped oats. I purchase all three feeds bulk which eliminates bag handling and provides substantial savings over bag prices. I have no fussy eaters on Brown's Feeds. Growth rates on our yearlings are excellent and our horses hold their condition. I like Brown's steam crimped oats because they are clean and more digestible than whole oats. I also buy much of my tack at Brown's. They have a tremendous variety of items and their prices are right.

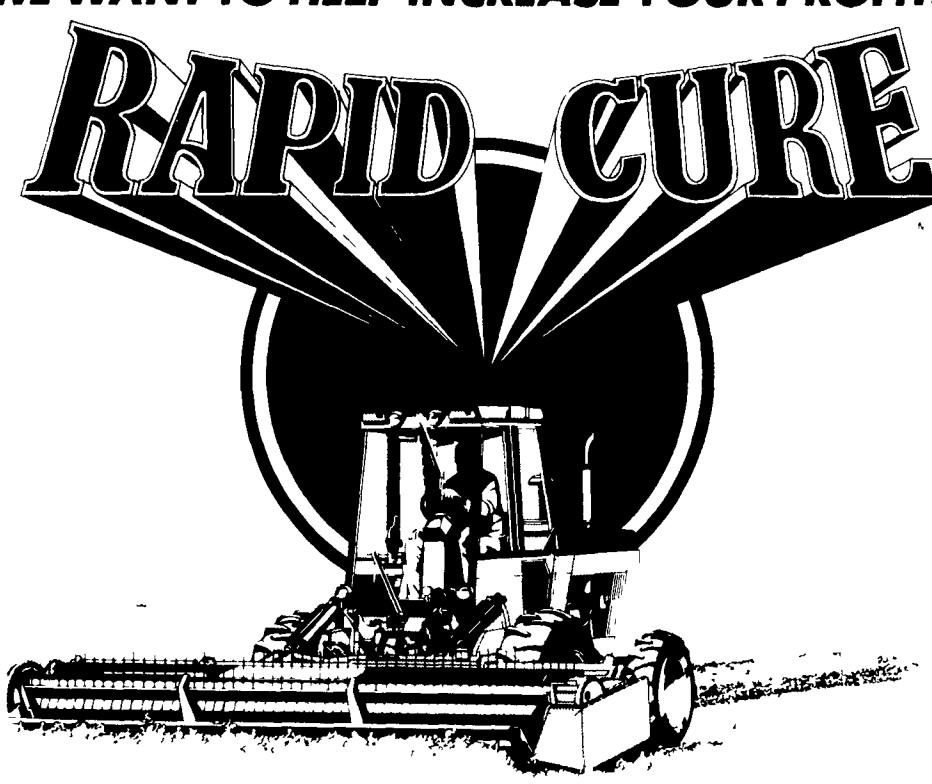
RAPID CURE



Chemical Hay Conditioner

When sprayed on alfalfa hay during cutting, the RAPID CURE mixture penetrates the waxy cutin layer on the stems, increasing the rate of water evaporation from the hay.

RAPID CURE:

1. Reduces chance of rain damage
2. Improves the quality of hay
3. Gets hay off faster and allows more days for new hay crop to grow.

RAPID CURE Doesn't Cost...It Pays!!!

Both university and farm tests have proven RAPID CURE Chemical Hay Conditioner pays for itself. RAPID CURE will cost about $6.00 to $6.50 per acre. Applied as directed, RAPID CURE will increase hay yield by 120 to 130 lbs. per acre. This increased yield pays the cost of RAPID CURE.

ABC GROFF, INC. has a quality line of RAPID CURE applicators to fit your needs.

NEWS FROM YOUR CYANAMID AGRICENTER™

PROWL®

PROWL® CONTROLS TRIAZINE-RESISTANT WEEDS IN CORN AT A LOWER COST

EFFECTIVE, ECONOMICAL CONTROL PROWL® herbicide controls triazine-resistant weeds in corn, including pigweed and lambsquarters, at a lower cost than Lasso[1] or Dual[2] And PROWL takes care of other problem grasses and certain broadleaves, too, including seedling Johnsongrass and velvetleaf.

EASY APPLICATION Surface-apply PROWL preemergence, or apply early postemergence in a tank mix with Bladex 80W[3] or atrazine. Do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

LOCAL SERVICE As your friends and neighbors, we feel that service is just as important as product. And now, as your local Cyanamid AgriCenter, we can serve you even better. Come see us about PROWL for controlling triazine-resistant weeds in your corn at a lower cost. You'll see why PROWL is your best herbicide value.

Iowa Expert Tells Local Producers He Is Is Optimistic About The Hog Business

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG — A University of Minnesota faculty member on sabbatical leave to study pork production records in Iowa told a group of Pennsylvania hog producers here Wednesday evening that whoever can raise pigs more efficiently than the average will continue to be in business for the next 20 years. Dr. Al Leman, DVM, told the Pennfield Hog Round Table Meeting that if you are in a system where you get high productivity, you are going to make a profit. "It is so easy to be better than average, and I am convinced that will be good enough to survive," Dr. Leman said.

"In the east, you have a market advantage. You are close to a lot of people. I would think this will continue. You don't have quite the building and labor economy of the midwest, and you pay a little more for grain. So it comes down to who can get the highest productivity. But I've worked enough cash flows on paper recently that I'm convinced that you don't need to be afraid to invest a lot of capital into this industry. You can see I'm optimistic about the future," Leman said.

Using research data from records on 175 Iowa farms that includes from 75 to 1,000 sows, Leman showed that in 1986 weaned cost on a cash basis was $20.62. If you figure in farm labor at $7.50 per hour and at least a $5 per pig facility charge, the cost goes up to $27.28. Pounds sold per breeding unit per year (including entire breeding herd; boars, gilts and bred animals) was 3,800 pounds or about 4,000 pounds when based on sow numbers only. Cost per ton of feed in Iowa was $1.08 per ton. And that was 53 percent of the total cost of production.

The study shows that gilt litter size is highly related to the age of the gilt when bred. A gilt bred less than 190 days had an average of 8.8 piglets per littler. When the age was increased to 191 to 210 days, the average went up to 9.9. And over 210 days the average litter size was over 10 piglets per litter. In addition, over a four litter period, the gilt bred at less than 190 days had one fewer pigs per litter than the animals bred 191 to 210 days and two fewer pigs per litter than the animals bred over 210 days of age.

Another significant finding in the study was that multiple mating was easier when the sow came in heat within the first six days after weaning. Eighty-two percent of the 60,000 to 70,000 matings in the study were in this category. Dr. Leman found this wean to first service period a very significant tool to gauge how the breeding operation was succeeding. In a grow/finish operation, feed consumption and mortality were listed as the most important factors. However, a lot of feed is wasted so Dr. Leman made a difference between consumption and disappearance. While the computer program uses disappearance to factor operating expenses and gains that could be different if wasted feed was also considered on each farm.

Dr. Leman listed repeat breeders as very poor risks. "I try to watch the herd closely and not get over 10 percent repeat breeders. I prefer it to be in the five percent range. Space is your most expensive variable. And if the sow is a repeat breeder, she is a poor risk and it may be best to put another sow in her place," Leman said.

Leman has found that seasonal fluctuations in breeding cycles has started to disappear in confinement operations. Though the fluctuations still show up very pointedly in outdoor operations.

In the midwest they are being encouraged to market larger animals. In 1986, the average weight was 230 pounds. In 1987 that will likely be closer to 245 pounds according to Dr. Leman. "And we'll continue to market heavier animals," Leman said.

"Loins are the only thing we produce that aren't reconstructed. Everything else, including the carcass, can be bigger if it doesn't have fat on it. Right now in central Iowa, our best market is around 270 pounds. Many producers are reluctant to go that high because it has been historically wrong. But on a straight out market value, it is the best market. Pork is good," Dr. Leman said. "Animal muscle tissue has turned the corner and is getting better press. Animal fat is not good, and we need to work to get excessive fat out of our products. Lean meat is a good product medically. And I expect to raise pigs for the next 20 years. And I expect that you will do that, too," he said.

Fruit Spray Booklet Available

An 18-page booklet on sprays for home fruit plantings is now available from the Delaware Cooperative Extension System./

Published jointly by the University of Maryland and the University of Delaware extension systems, the bulletin lists spray materials and spray schedules for tree fruits and raspberries, blackberries, blueberries and grapes. It also identifies specific fruit diseases and fruit-attacking insects and methods of their control.

The Coming Farm Labor Crunch

BY ALVI O. VOIGT
Professor of Agricultural Economics

In the United States in 1985, dairy farms paid out an average $14,488 per farm for labor expenses, for both hired and contract labor. Call it $14,500 labor cost per dairy farm. Hired labor is going to be more critical in the future.

Mechanization of many farm operations went full speed ahead during the 1950s and 1960s which reduced the need for farm workers. Since then, advances in mechanization have slowed considerably. This, along with the necessity to increase farm size, means there'll be a need for more labor.

The 'gospel' According to the USDA

According to a recent USDA 1985 Farm Costs and Return Survey some 125,000 U.S. dairy farms representing 87 percent of sales by dairy farms with labor expenses were the basis of the $14,500 average labor cost per dairy farm. Now that's a powerful average that would be difficult to improve upon. Average, though can be misleading especially when we really would like to have an average tailored to Pennsylvania, or, better yet, an average for a particular market area.

Nope, the USDA didn't "crunch" any more-usable figures for Pennsylvania.

I phoned one of the knowledgeable persons at the USDA's Economic Research Service (Robert Coltrane, 202-786-1932) to see if any trends of dairy farm labor costs were available. After all, it would be worthwhile to know dairy labor costs by year over the last five or 10 or 20 years.

Again, nope. Back to square one? Not necessarily.

Any dairy farmer has his own records which can dramatically show exactly what's going-on on his own farm. Simply line up the labor expense by year over the last 10 years or so. A farmer's own records are an essential starting point for analysis.

Other Considerations

Our population in the United States is aging. A labor shortage is coming, according to demographers. All employees that will be hired until the end of this century have already been born. There will be 6 million less teenagers in 1990 than were available in 1980.

And who would ever think that a drop in the unemployment rate would be 'bad news?'

The April unemployment report showed a drop in the jobless to 6.3 percent. This was the lowest level since March 1980. A low jobless rate is either good or bad news depending on which side of the employee-employer fence you're sitting. The economy is continuing to grow steadily and may be stronger than some economists had expected — and that's good news. Also good news would be the off-farm job opportunities for farm family members; in fact off-farm income is extremely important — and getting more so.

Farm family members ought to think more about better-paying off-farm jobs, and think about using hired farm labor to a larger extent. The bad news for employers is the relatively fewer available workers which will create more competition (higher wages) in the labor market.

Have you heard about the proposed hike in minimum wages?

Legislation has been proposed to raise the current $3.35 hourly minimum wage to $5.05 over the next five years. A bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-NY. At least two other bills raising the minimum wage have also been introduced. The current minimum wage of $3.35 has been unchanged since 1981.

Raising the minimum wage will not only increase the lowest entry level jobs but also increase the differential of all jobs above the minimum. So, in effect, a similar wage increase provided to the lowest paid worker will result in close to that amount given to workers who were above minimum. The "pecking order" tends to be maintained.

Labor By Type of Farm

Average spending for labor on farms with hired workers varied greatly by type of farm in 1985. The highest average labor expense occurred with the nursery and greenhouse 'farm' with $72,154; next were vegetable and melon farms averaging $54,629 labor expense per farm followed by fruit and tree nut farms, $41,360; other crops, $14,492; dairy, $14,488; poultry, $12,292; other livestock, $11,059; tobacco and cotton, $10,277; ash grain, $7,350; and beef, hogs and sheep, $6,240. The average of all farms was $12,745. Some 860,132 farms were included in the 1985 Farm Costs and Return survey.

Upshot?

Hired labor will indeed be more critical for farms in the future, especially where farm and non-farm jobs compete for the existing labor force.

Where not many off-farm job opportunities exist, the smaller- and medium-size farms would be less likely to earn extra off-farm income. This means many of these farms will not survive in the long run even when farm family labor is heavily used to reduce the costs of hired farm labor. Labor essentially will be in a surplus in these areas. The returns to both farm family and hired labor will be low. Rural communities in such situations will have higher unemployment and experience an out-migration to more favorable labor markets.

Another result should be some greater attention to business management. Deciding whether it is profitable to buy a new piece of equipment, make-do with what you have, hire custom workers, shift crop or livestock enterprises, rent some land, share crop to some extent, make better use of your location either from a production or market standpoint, and on and on.

In addition to business management, people management will become a more valuable skill for farmers of the future. Hourly wage rates and salaries are important, becoming more so if inflation increases and a higher minimum wage is put in place. Knowing how to acquire, train and keep productive, happy and satisfied workers — and providing them with fair wages — will be an art and skill worth developing.

Douglass To Host New Jersey Dairy Farm Open House

PITTSTOWN, N.J. — Mark and Wendy Douglass, Union Township, will host this year's Dairy Farm Open House on Father's Day, June 21. The farm is located in the center of the county, about ¼ mile north of Pittstown, 5 miles south of Clinton. It's an excellent location.

Dairy Farm Open House is a popular event, traditionally held on Father's Day, publicized as "open-to-the-public and free." Hours are 1 to 5 p.m.

Coordinating the activity is Henry Kuehn Jr., Raritan Township, chairman of a large 30-member committee of the Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture. "It takes a lot of work on the part of the committee, and certainly the host farm, to put on an affair like this," Hank Kuehn says.

There is also cooperation and support from Dairylea, New Jersey Farm Bureau, Rutgers Cooperative Extension, and the New Jersey Department of Agriculture's "Jersey Fresh" program, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council.

The Farm

Mark and Wendy Douglass have a top-flight Holstein herd. Known as Wen-Mar Holsteins, the herd stands first in production in the Central Jersey area. Mark and Wendy, a young dairy couple, have learned early how to put all the practices together to develop an outstanding dairy herd. And they will be showing it off on open house day.

There will be exhibits, demonstrations of artificial insemination using frozen semen, tours of the farm fields, a chance to see the herd fed and milked. Visitors will have an opportunity to milk a cow by hand.

Hunterdon Dairy Princess and others will be present to greet visitors and to serve complimentary milk and cheese snacks.

A highlight of the day will be the crowning of the new Dairy Princess in a brief ceremony on a wagon stage. This will take place at about 2:30 p.m.

Norlebco 4-H Dairy Club

Members of the Norlebco 4-H Dairy Club met April 3 at Larry and Lorraine Shuey's. Members elected the following officers: president, Laura Harding; vice president, Sherry Donmoyer; secretary, Lynette Shuey; assistant secretary, Kynel Bomgardner; treasurer, David Lentz; and news reporter, Deb Shuey.

In May, the group met at the home of Wes and Barbara Harding, where they saw the film "Right Time" and received results from the Hoard's Dairyman Contest. Brenda and Diane Dice gave a demonstration.

The next meeting will be held at Vincent Wagner June 20 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Members will learn the proper way to clip and show dairy animals. Norlebco and Elco Dairy Clubs will participate.

Carty Dispersal Realizes $3,200 Top, $1,615 Average

SMOKETOWN — A 5-year-old Shardale Arlinda Chief daughter topped the recent Brook-Lynn-Acres complete dispersal by selling for $3,200.

Brook-Lynn-Acres Jemini Vickie completed a high record of 22,280 pounds of milk and 810 pounds of fat in 340 days. She is projected at 24,684 pounds of milk and 858 pounds of fat in her current lactation and she carries a Cow Index of plus 182 milk and plus 11 fat with a CTPI of plus 340.

Purchased by Paul Neer, Bridgewater, Va., the VG-87 cow freshened in Dec. 2, 1986 and was bred on April 3 to Carlin-M Ivanhoe Bell. Her dam, Brook-Lynn-Acres Mark Vale-ET, classified GP-83 with records to 15,430 pounds of milk and 546 pounds of fat.

Brook-Lynn-Acres R Maple Vale, granddam of the sale topper, classified VG-87. The daughter of Citation R Maple produced two records over 22,800 pounds of milk and 760 pounds of fat.

Three lots sold for the second high bid of the sale, $2,700. Selling at this price were: Brook-Lynn-Acres Enha Lillipop, Brook-Lynn-Acres Calypso Debra, and Brook-Lynn-Acres Enhancer Fifi.

Lillipop, a 2-year-old daughter of Enhancer, sold to Raymond Getz of Lebanon County. Classified GP-82, she is projected at 30,484 pounds of milk and 938 pounds of fat in her first lactation. She is due in October to Valiant.

Sired by Bun-Yard Money Maker, her dam completed a top effort of 24,850 pounds of milk and 943 pounds of fat in 313 days. The VG-85 cow is out of a VG-86 Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief dam with records to 23,600 pounds of milk and 1,040 pounds of fat.

Debra, GP-83, sold to David Pool, Woodstown, N.J. Sired by Applenotch Valiant Calypso-ET, she is projected to 25,737 pounds of milk and 887 pounds of fat in her first lactation. The 2-year-old is due in late-September to Elevation.

Her dam, sired by Quality Ultimate, classified GP-82 and owns records to 23,138 pounds of milk and 857 pounds of fat. The next dam, sired by Elevation produced a top effort of 15,410 pounds of milk.

Sired by Enhancer, Fifi will freshen in July with a Valiant calf. The bred heifer sold to Byron Armstrong, Columbus, N.J.

Her dam classified Very Good. Sired by Sky-Hi Boot Mark, her best effort still in progress at 301 days stands at 22,353 pounds of milk and 666 pounds of fat. The next dam classified VG-87 and completed three lactations over 24,000 pounds of milk and two records over 900 pounds of fat.

Two other cows from the same maternal line as Fifi sold for $2,100. Brook-Lynn-Acres Mark Friskie, a Very Good 4 year old by Sky-Hi Boot Mark, will freshen in August to Tri-Town Steady Spipper. At 301 days her top record stands at 22,353 pounds of milk and 666 pounds of fat.

Her 2-year-old daughter also sold for $2,100. The GP-80 cow will freshen in mid-June to Valiant. In 315 days, she produced 19,595 pounds of milk and 642 pounds of fat during her first lactation.

A pair of registered twin bred heifers each sold for $1,375 to Galen Nolt, Peach Bottom. One of the Arlinda C A R Dairyman daughters was due in July to Mandingo and the other heifer was due at sale time to Enhancer.

Their dam, sired by Elevation, owns records up to 22,020 pounds of milk and 745 pounds of fat.

The top grade sold for $1,675. A bred heifer, she will freshen in June to Walkway Chief Mark. Her dam completed three records over 25,000 pound of milk with a top over 27,000 and two records over 1,000 pounds of fat.

Overall, the 109 lots of grade and registered animals averaged $1,289. The top 10 lots averaged $2,068. The 38 registered cows averaged $1,615; 35 registered bred heifers averaged $1,276; and five registered yearlings averaged $790. The top 12 grades averaged $1,359.

About 147 buyers registered for the sale held at Smoketown Quality Dairy Sales. John Stauffer served as auctioneer, Henry Kettering read pedigrees, and Helen and Gordon Fritz managed the sale.

Ronald L. Carty and family of Columbus, N.J., owners of the Brook-Lynn-Acres herd, decided to hold the dispersal after selling their 200-acre farm for development. They built a rolling herd average of 20,119 pounds of milk and 710 pounds of fat after 24 years in the dairy business.

Tobacco Growers

According to Eric Probst, a spokesman for Paradise Tobacco Sales, one of the county's tobacco auction houses, a flood of cheap processed burley was "85 percent of the problem." Grown under a quota system primarily in the mountain country of Kentucky and North Carolina, burley is used in various cigarette blends, along with flue cured and Maryland 609 tobaccos.

When more than 200 million pounds of government-owned, processed burley began hitting the market last year, demand for Pennsylvania's crop of 609 all but dried up. Neither the Maryland 609 nor the Pennsylvania Type 41, grown in Pennsylvania and used in the manufacture of cigar and chewing tobaccos, is subject to government quotas and support prices.

According to a spokesman for USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the passage of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 required the Commodity Credit Corporation to sell the 1983 burley crop, already processed and in storage. Two bid sales were held last year, with prices averaging 59.1 cents and 62.3 cents per pound. The USDA spokesman calculates that, in order to compete with these prices, unprocessed tobacco would have to sell for about 25 cents per pound less.

The last of the burley crop—55 million pounds—went up for bids on May 13, and all bids must be received by June 11. The USDA official says a repeat of the 1986 scenario isn't likely to occur, even though the 1982 and '84 crops have yet to be sold. Both these crops are owned by two southern tobacco cooperatives, and companies have already signed agreements to buy the tobacco from the co-ops at prices that won't be competitive with Pennsylvania-grown tobacco.

"The companies will be able to buy the '87 crop off the floor cheaper than they can buy these two ('82 and '84 crops)," said the USDA spokesman, adding that approximate per-pound prices for the 1982 and '84 crops will be $3.40 and $2.94, respectively.

Joe Irving, a buyer with Ideal Leaf Co., of Farmville, Va., believes the sale of the last of the burley bodes well for the future of Pennsylvania's tobacco market. "Two months ago I thought it would take a year or so for prices to come back, but my opinion has changed," he says. "My prediction is that the prices will be a whole lot better than they were this year," says Irving, a regular bidder at Lancaster County auction houses. The buyer predicts that 1987's 609 crop will sell in the "90-cent range."

Eric Probst shares Irving's optimism for the 609 market. Probst said about 300,000 to 400,000 pounds of Lancaster County tobacco has sold in the last two weeks, with prices stabilizing at between 65 cents and 70 cents per pound.

Faced with depressed prices at county auctions earlier this year, some growers accepted offers from four tobacco companies to process their tobacco and attempt to move it on the world market. (Since Maryland 609 cannot be stored in raw form throughout the warm months, growers could sell at the lower prices or process the tobacco and gamble that holding out for higher prices would be the right move.) Probst says that, as the burley makes its way through market channels, buyers are now expressing interest in the processed 609.

Probst believes farmers will make a mistake by getting out of the tobacco business after last year's experience. "This is the year to put your garden aside and fill it with tobacco," he advises. "Hang in there and be consistent. Fellows that stick with 609 will probably have a very good market."

From a buyer's standpoint, Irving thinks that even cutting 609 production in half would be a mistake. "If the volume's not here, you can't create the (buyer) interest," says Irving.

While Probst said that very little of the county's 1986 crop of 609 remains to be sold, the same can't be said for Type 41. Claude Martin, president of Lancaster Leaf

Help Wanted

Graduates with bachelor's degrees can expect annual salaries in the $16,000 to $20,000 range, depending on their major. Food science graduates will probably be able to achieve a starting salary of approximately $25,000, said Philip Bucher, assistant director for information systems at Penn State University. Bucher also works as a liaison between the placement center and the college of agriculture. On the other hand, wildlife science majors face an average starting salary of $15,000.

For graduates with master's degrees, starting salaries jump to an average of over $21,000, while doctoral degree holders will earn an average wage of $34,000.

Although the job market is excellent for ag graduates, colleges and universities are reporting a decline in college of ag enrollment. The cause of the decrease lies in the public's perception of agriculture as a career only for people who want to farm or garden, Bucher says. Part of the problem can also be attributed to media stories of bankrupt farmers and declining commodity prices.

At Penn State University, enrollment in the college of agriculture has dropped significantly in the past several years. For the 1979-80 school year, the university reported 830 ag graduates. By 1984-85 that figure had dropped over 50 percent to 408 graduates. University statistics indicate a total of 235 graduates so far for the 1986-87 year. However, that figure does not include students who will graduate in summer or fall terms.

Dr. John Mertz, dean of students at Delaware Valley College, notes that ag admissions there have been down about half in the plant side of the program and about 40 percent in animal-centered majors.

The trend has been similar at the University of Maryland, where the number of students graduating from ag programs has steadily decreased from 237 in 1983 to 154 in 1986.

"The irony of all this is there are jobs out there in agriculture. This is not a closed field," Bucher stressed. "We know of jobs that are begging."

The job market is especially favorable to students armed with technical, scientific or marketing knowledge. Those who have done well in the sciences can expect better jobs, Mertz noted.

With biotechnology becoming increasingly important to agriculture, tremendous opportunities in that field will be developing in the next four to five years.

Agriculture, Mertz continued, is swinging away from its emphasis on producing quantity in favor of quality products with specific marketable characteristics.

Penn State grads with food science degrees move into a very favorable job market that offers competitive salaries, Bucher reports.

Poultry technology majors also fare well when seeking employment, with the university reporting a 100 percent placement record for these students over the past six years. Employers in the poultry business have been able to fill only about a quarter of their available positions with poultry majors, turning to students from other disciplines to fill the remainder, Bucher said.

Job opportunities abound for agronomy and horticulture majors as well, but often offer lower salaries, he noted.

The demand for ag majors will probably continue to increase. A USDA report released in July 1986 predicted an annual shortfall of about 4,000 ag graduates per year through 1990. The figures from the report, titled "Employment Opportunities for College Graduates in Food and Agricultural Sciences," reflect consideration for competition for the same jobs by grads from other disciplines and still came up short, Bucher noted.

"The market is great for agriculture," he said. "It's just that image is terrible."

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

— Rains benefited the development of crops during the weeks ended Monday and replenished some of the soil moisture that had dropped to low levels on Pennsylvania farms during the dry spell of the past few weeks, the State Department of Agriculture said today following Federal-State surveys.

Good progress was reported for all crops. The increased moisture enabled farmers to prepare land for corn and potatoes in northern counties and was beneficial to the dormation of heads on wheat in the southern and central areas of the State.

— Now is the time . . . To Cut Forage Crops . . . To Spray For Second Cutting of Alfalfa . . . To Spray Corn for Weed Control . . . To Refrain from Pasturing Young Cows.

— More than 2,000 of the nation's top dairy farmers will converge in Indianapolis next week for the 72nd Annual Convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Holstein breeders from all 48 states plus several from various Latin-American countries are expected to participate in the four-day event.

— 29 Pigs Lost in $40,000 Fire Near Blue Ball . . . Barn, Silo, Combine Destroyed, 40-MPH Wind Fans Flames . . . Gusts of wind up to 40 miles an hour fanned a $40,000 fire that destroyed a bank barn, silo, 29 pigs and a combine on the farm of Clyde Martin, two miles east of Blue Ball, near the Weaverland Mennonite Church, at 7:45 a.m. today.

— The plentiful foods list which is issued monthly by the Food Distribution Division of AMS will feature turkey and ice cream in July. Other items on the July plentifuls list will be eggs, milk and other dairy products, lemons, peaches, limes, frozen strawberries, summer vegetables, vegetable fats and oils, peanut butter and fresh fish.

— Figures released in Washington last week show that the Armed Forces increased their consumption of milk by more than 309 million pints in 1956 under the special program intended to stimulate the use of more milk by troops and hospital patients.

Bailey Elected President

LOYSBURG — Harold W. Bailey of Roaring Springs was elected president and delegate of the Blair-Bedford Local of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative during a recent meeting here at the Community Building, Eastern Director Norman A. Fyock of Osterburg annouunced.

Other officers, also elected to one-year terms, are: Daniel J. Oldham of New Paris, vice president; Mary Walter of Claysburg, secretary; and John M. Drake of Curryville, treasurer and alternate delegate.

SEWAGE SLUDGE IS A VALUABLE RESOURCE!!

Did you know that.....
... municipal and industrial wastewater treatment plants produce two end products - water and sludge
. . after treatment, the water is returned to the environment, usually to the nearest stream.
... sludge is produced as a result of biological, chemical and physical conditioning processes within the treatment plant.
... many sludges are often landfilled or incinerated, even though they may have good crop fertilizer value.
.. landfilling and incineration are very costly disposal techniques, compared to land application methods of injection and incorporation.
... higher disposal costs are paid for by the users of the system — local businesses and homeowners.
... farmland application of good quality stabilized sludge can provide an economical means of disposal for the treatment plant, and results in savings to the farmer by reducing his fertilizer needs for many field crops such as corn, small grain and hay.
.. land application permits are issued and monitored by the state environmental agency to assure compliance with good management techniques.
... Statewide will work with you to obtain both the permit and the quality sludge to reduce your crop input costs.
... there is no cost for this service to qualified farmers.
... sewage sludge is a valuable resource!! Find out today!

LYNG WOULD NOT APPROVE MORE SUBSIDIES TO USSR—When the current offer of subsidized wheat sales to the Soviet Union is fulfilled, that will be it as far as U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng is concerned. Lyng said he would say no to additional bonus exports for grain sales to the Soviets. Lyng said the subsidy was offered to deny the Soviets an excuse not to buy the 4 million metric tons of wheat they are obligated to purchase under the long term grain agreement. He said they have purchased 3 million tons so far and expressed confidence that they will fulfill the agreement.

Interviewed on the NBC Today program, Lyng also predicted success for the U.S. effort to get Japan to open their markets to more agricultural commodities; warned the European Economic Community that imposing taxes on vegetable oils would violate the GATT and bring retaliation by the U.S.; and said U.S. farmers would welcome the opportunity to compete with farmers around the world for markets if they did not also have to compete against the treasuries of foreign governments.

EGG PRODUCERS TO VOTE ON PROMOTION---The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced a referendum to be conducted between May 25 and June 19 on a proposed egg marketing order. Eligible producers, those with 10,000 or more laying hens between Dec. 1, 1986 and Feb. 28, 1987 and still in the business, will vote by mail and ballots must be postmarked by June 19.

If approved the order would establish a national board appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture to administer research, promotion and consumer information programs to enhance the egg industry's position in the marketplace, said Patrick Boyle, administrator of the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. The referendum will be conducted for all commercial egg producers except those in Hawaii and Alaska. Ballots and voting instructions have been mailed to all known eligible producers. Eligible producers who may have been overlooked may contact a poultry extension office or egg promotion organization in their state, or they may request a ballot from the Poultry Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

GOAT MILK ENJOYS A HEALTHY MARKET—Surpluses pile up in many commodities and producers worry about losing market shares, but not producers of goat milk, says a California-based producer of evaporated and powdered goat milk. The product is unique, produced by only one other supplier, a New Zealand firm. Sales of the processed goat milk doubled, from 150,000 cases to 300,000 cases, between 1984 and 1986.

Robert Jackson, chief executive officer of Jackson-Mitchell, the Santa Barbara, California company that is enjoying such hefty growth, says goat milk enjoys a ready market because of its special taste and its use in gourmet cooking as well as for its unique health value. Goat milk is lower in cholesterol and higher in calcium than milk from cows, Jackson said.

REFOCUS OF REGULATIONS CALLED FOR—Scientists in a national advisory panel said that "if the Environmental Protection Agency would focus on the most worrisome chemicals used on the most frequently eaten foods, nearly all risk of cancer from pesticide residue could be eliminated."

The National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences found that 90 percent of the total oncogenic (tumor-causing) risk posed by the 28 pesticides studied relates to pesticides registered before 1978. That is when the EPA began requiring more stringent testing, said Ray Thornton, president of the University of Arkansas, who chaired the scientific panel.

House leaders in Congress responded to the report with a bill to accelerate pesticide re-registration. Sen. Patrick Leahy, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said a Senate version would be introduced after the Memorial Day recess. Legislation that would have provided for faster re-registration of chemicals died in Congress late last year.

The council emphasized that agricultural chemicals are heavily regulated and actual risk of cancer from pesticide is small—at worst possibly one case in 1,000 people—compared to other causes of the disease, which have an overall risk of one in four. The committee pointed out that "strict adherence" to the Delaney Clause of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which applies zero-risk standard to processed food but not to fresh food, would eliminate only about half of the estimated cancer risk from these compounds.

ZEROING IN ON OIL OVERCHARGES---Oil overcharge refunds available to heavy users of petroleum products are available as a result of court settlement in 1986 of action by the Department of Energy against several oil companies.

The American Farm Bureau is preparing to act in cooperation with state Farm Bureaus to ensure that individual farmers eligible for refunds will receive them or otherwise benefit from the distribution of unclaimed refunds. Refunds to individuals are provided for in one category under the settlement called Subpart V funds. Between $1 billion and $1.5 billion is available for the refunds and any portion of it not claimed reverts eventually back to the respective states and the U.S. Treasury, said Mark Maslyn of the AFBF national affairs staff. Iowa and New York Farm Bureaus already have Department of Energy approval for programs of direct benefit to farmers. AFBF is developing a form on which farmers can prove their eligibility and claim refunds due them.

The overcharge period covered by the settlement spans 7 1/2 years from 1973 to 1981. Refunds would amount to between $80 and $150 per 100,000 gallons of specified petroleum products used in that period. Individuals who purchased through major cooperatives are ineligible for refunds because another phase of the refund applies to cooperatives, through action of their association.

THIS YEAR—Washington is astir with rural development ideas and proposals. The administration has its plan to make rural improvements and enhance business opportunities in rural communities. Members of Congress too are eyeing proposals for spreading federal largess in rural areas. The idea is not going unnoticed by various rural advocacy groups who seem to be making themselves heard more than ever, perhaps jockeying for attention as chosen ones to administer some of the rural development programs. Recent presenations on the subject have been by former Secretary of Agriculture Robert Bergland, now head of the National Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives and by Prairiefire Rural Action Inc., a Des Moines-based farm crisis intervention outfit.

American Farm Bureau's John Datt said yesterday the "newfound" interest in rural development is welcomed, but added that overall efforts to encourage economic growth and improve U.S. competitiveness in world markets will provide the greatest boost for rural America. Datt, executive director of AFBF's Washington office, said, "Federal rural support programs should not interfere with local programs and private sector activities already underway."

IT'S HARD TO LET GO OF A GOOD CRISIS—Just when many people are starting to say the farm decline is leveling off and giving more upbeat reports on the farm economy, the crisis-oriented Prairiefire Rural Action, Inc., claims the crisis is getting worse not better.

Prairiefire's latest lament, by spokesman Daniel Levitas, concerned the large increase in farm bankruptcies and foreclosures. He, of course, did not bother to explain that there was a moratorium on foreclosures by the FmHA agency during part of his comparison period and chapter 12 has been added to the bankruptcy code, making it more of a financial reorganization than a liquidation.

Levitas' statistical references to the American Bankers Association were immediately called into question by ABA representative Leslie Miller, who said their latest report covers only the last half of 1985 and the first half of 1986. She expressed the opinion that their next survey will show less farms going out of business this year. "The crisis isn't over, but we are stabilizing," Miller said.

Buyout Program On Track With 3 Months To Go

WASHINGTON — The goals of the Dairy Termination Program appear within reach as it moves rapidly into its final three months.

Through May 9 slightly over 1 million animals were slaughtered in accordance with guidelines of the program. As of May 16, 57,193 animals in the program were exported, said Darwin Carter of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Approximately 76 percent of the 1.5 million cows, heifers and calves to be removed by the DTP have been disposed of in accordance with guidelines of the program, according to USDA reports.

"We think it is going about as well as can be expected," Carter said, evaluating the 14-month-old program. Beef prices have stabilized and the Commodity Credit Corporation's purchases have decreased considerably. "We have to say the program has been successful so far." He noted that it would be several months after the completion of the DTP before a benefits versus costs evaluation will be completed.

When the program ends Aug. 30, 1987, the government will have purchased 400 million pounds of meat to offset the effects of the DTP on beef prices. The purchases were to be made at the same rate as the animals in the program were sent to slaughter, Carter explained. It was the intention of the Secretary of Agriculture for the DTP to have a zero market effect, he added. Other than the market speculation which caused a dip in prices at the onset of the program, Carter noted, the program has been successful in meeting this goal.

As of May 23, the government purchased 377.4 million pounds of meat. However, these purchases were a combination of carcasses, cuts and ground meat. Some of the cuts contained bones, dropping the net meat purchases to 320 million pounds, Carter pointed out.

All of the animals entered into the program will be slaughtered by Aug. 30. Some animals contracted for export may leave 30-days after the final day if an extension was granted, Carter noted.

Schools To 'Make It Shake' This Fall

HARRISBURG — Milkshakes will be added to school lunch programs next year if the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program has it's way.

At PDPP's regular May meeting, the 21-member advisory board approved a "Make it Shake" promotion kit and instructed the executive committee to hire a full-time field representative to work with school districts on the new program.

Everyone wins, it was noted at the meeting. The shakes will help dairymen sell more milk, and also will make school menus both nutritionally well balanced and popular with the students.

Milkshakes also should generate profits for schools, Board Chairman Jim Harteis pointed out. The Cambria county dairyman has helped promote school milkshakes in the Johnstown area for several years.

According to the board chairman, schools serving 100 shakes a day at 50 cents each could expect to make $5,400 in profits annually.

"Some schools average twice that many sales in their lunch program," Harteis pointed out. He said schools also sell milkshakes at social functions and sport events.

Not all board members were impressed.

"Is promoting a dessert-like product a service to the dairy industry?" Albert Hack of Columbia County asked.

"Milkshakes are nutritious," Paul Corbin of Jefferson County commented. "It's sure better than students punching quarters in the soft drink machines."

"We're getting students to think milk with a meal rather than soft drinks," Harteis added.

Randall Hirsch of the Central Pennsylvania Restaurant Equipment Sales demonstrated a shake and soft serve machine at the meeting. According to Hirsch, studies indicate shakes do not cut into milk sales. It's new business.

The vote to go ahead with the "Make it Shake" kit and new field representative was unanimous.

PDPP's new field representative will not confine his activities to milkshakes, according to Harteis.

"The job description is a mile long," Harteis explained. "We'll expect the person to call on schools, restaurants, supermarkets and institutions. Any place milk is served or sold."

"In addition," he added, "the field rep will assist local promotion groups in their endeavors, attend meetings and give talks."

Salary will be commensurate with experience, it was noted. A decision on the new employee is expected my mid-June.

In other action, the board:

• Increased its funding to the Dairy Princess program to $17,200 for the current fiscal year and voted $20,000 for the 1988 fiscal year. This in line with a formula determined by the four milk promotion programs serving Pennsylvania.

• Heeded the advice of Steve Crawford, special assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff, to take no action under Act 1 until the new law could be interpreted by the Secretary and policies established. Act 1 provides new administrative options for state commodity programs.

• Okayed a $44,900 contract with Penn State for all football and basketball radio broadcasts. Package includes radio advertising, a full page ad in the Beaver Stadium game programs, presentation of milk can trophies to winners of the Penn State-Temple and Penn State-Pittsburgh games and $2,000 in academic scholarships to winning schools.

• Heard progress report on new film documentary from Vice Chairman Thad Woodward, Bradford County, who serves as technical advisor to Film Space, State College, with board members Chris Wolff, Columbia County, and David Bird, Montour County.

• Renewed contract for "Make it Milk" billboards in Hershey Arena. An estimated million hockey, basketball and other arena visitors see the billboards annually.

• Bid goodbye to David B. Stetler, Juniata County, who resigned as a board member to accept appointment as region six director for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in southcentral Pennsylvania.

$10,500 Bid For Fayette Son Tops Guernsey Sale

Breeders Vote To Change Cattle Club To Association At National Guernsey Convention

progeny of Yellow Creek Choice Blossom EX-92. Blossom carries a Cow Index of plus 1,320 milk, plus 40 fat, plus $137, and plus $113 cheese yield with a CPI of plus 260. She owns a MCD of plus 11,939 milk and 389 fat. The 7-year-old cow produced a top record of 37,860 pounds of milk and 1,537 pounds of fat with a 4.1 test in 365 days. Her lifetime effort stands at 124,730 pounds of milk and 5,323 pounds of fat with a 4.3 test.

Her dam produced lactations to 24,750 pounds of milk and 1,012 pounds of fat.

Mountain Brook Big Tex Lorna consigned by Tom and Mary Lurvey, Hidden Valley Farm, Lone Rock, Wis., was one of the top two selling milking females. She sold for $4,500 to Travis Smith Lindsey, Bismarck, Ill.

Tied with Lorna at the $4,500 mark was Yellow Creek Tex Louise who sold to Ken Forester of Ontario.

Lorna, a 3-year-old daughter of Big Tex, classified EX-91. She produced a 2-year-old record of 15,840 pounds of milk, 712 pounds of fat, and 548 pounds of protein. Her MCD stands at plus 1,910 milk and plus 68 fat. On her first test of this lactation she produced over 72 pounds of milk. She sold bred to Olympic View Prince Andy.

Her dam, EX-93 in Canada, was the 1984 Reserve All-Canadian 5 year old and produced a top fat record of 602 pounds.

Consigned by Weaver, Louise classified EX-91. The Big Tex daughter completed a high record of 16,450 pounds of milk and 786 pounds of fat with a 4.8 test in 305 days. A 4-year-old cow, she carries a MCD of plus 1,078 milk and plus 23 fat. Recently fresh, she is presently milking over 90 pounds.

Her 92-point May Rose Prince dam has four records over 21,000 pounds of milk and 1,000 pounds of fat with lifetime totals of 170,630 pounds of milk and 8,254 pounds of fat. The next dam produced over 119,000 pounds of milk and 5,800 pounds of fat lifetime.

The highest unborn embryo sold for $3,400 and was consigned by Clover Jack Farms, Ferndale, Calif. Sired by Andy, the embryo is out of the Clover Jack Telestar Victori cow. Classified EX-91 at 3 years 11 months, she ranks 12th in the breed for CPI. Her Cow Index in January 1987 stood at plus 1,170 milk, plus 46 fat, plus $140 and plus $136 cheese yield with a CPI of plus 292. She carries a MCD of plus 5,463 milk, plus 201 fat, and plus 139 protein.

Sired by Telestar, she completed a top lactation of 20,640 pounds of milk and 964 pounds of fat with a 4.7 test in 305 days. Her EX-91 Choice dam completed two records over 27,000 pounds of milk and 1,200 pounds of fat.

The three embryos sold averaged $1,933.

A breakdown of the pedigrees of the consignments showed 10 dams with records over 20,000 pounds of milk, an average MCD on all dams of plus 3,109 milk, 20 of the dams classified Excellent and 16 classified Very Good. The sires' PD averaged plus $81.

Lee and Martha Yost were honored for their dedication and service to the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association. Lee recently retired as business manager of the organization.

John Merryman of Sparks, Md., served as auctioneer for the sale. Erick Metzger of the Guernsey Marketing Service read pedigrees. Metzger noted this is the eighth convention sale out of the last 20 to average over $2,000. The average is down slightly from last year. He attributed this to the difference in location of the convention. While Pennsylvania ranks second in Guernsey registrations, Illinois, the site of last year's convention, is next to three of the top five states for Guernsey registrations.

Twenty percent of the proceeds of the sale are channeled into a fund to help with youth activities such as the National Guernsey Queen Contest.

Ohio Girl Wins National Queen Title

Sheri Kohler of Canel Winchester, Ohio, was selected as the 1987 National Guernsey Queen. Nancy Powel, Maryland's Queen, and Janice Winther, Iowa's Queen, were chosen as National Princesses. The Princesses will assist the Queen and fill in for her at different events.

Sheri is currently a junior at the Ohio State University and will graduate with a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics and a specialization in finance.

She owns five Guernseys at the Marodae Farm in Baltimore, Ohio. She is the past secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Junior Guernsey Breeders Association and is presently president of that organization. For the past seven years she has served on the district Guernsey Breeders Association's board of directors.

A Guernsey breed promoter, Sheri comments that the American Guernsey Association's programs such as sire summaries, the genetic recovery program, Journal contract advertising and young sire programs as well as keeping registrations up-to-date can help Guernsey operations run smoother.

Millie Linde Widmann, Oxford, the 1980 National Guernsey Queen, was the coordinator for this year's event. Judges for the pageant were Lavern McCaskill, South Carolina Guernsey breeder; Hettie Lancaster, Washington State farm wife; and Jim Widmann, AI technician for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative in Lancaster County.

The top female, a full sister to the sale topper, sold for $8,250. Posing with Yellow Creek Fayette Brook-ET are Michael Hurst (left), consignor Truman Weaver, Erick Metzger, Jerry Emrich, John Merryman, Dan Milhoefer and David Trotter on the halter.

Name Change Approved

The annual meeting of the American Guernsey Cattle Club opened on Monday morning, the final day of the convention. The primary topic of conversation revolved around the proposed name change of the national group to the American Guernsey Association. Breeders voted on and approved the name change.

Other topics of interest included the 1987 essay question for the outstanding Guernsey youth contest: "What can we do as Guernsey breeders to make the breed better?"

Mike Lancaster spoke to the concerned breeders of the controversial topic of registration by tattoo only. After Jan. 1, 1988, there will be an additional fee for any breeders that register cattle by a sketch only.

At the close of the annual meeting, Floyd Sandell, representing the Washington State

Record Sales Key Discussions At Annual Dairy Meeting

WASHINGTON — The 36 dairy farmers who form the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board convened at the Grand Hotel for their third annual meeting May 19 to 21.

Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng praised the Dairy Board's efforts at the meetings' opening reception, saying "I can't think of an instance where a promotional organization has been started as well and has accomplished so much so quickly."

The success of the Dairy Board's generic promotional campaign for dairy products has led to similar promotional efforts by other industries in the agricultural community, including beef and pork.

Newly-elected Board Chairman Louis Calcagno of Moss Landing, Calif., highlighted the successes of the past year for the dairy industry. "The industry recorded the largest three-year increase in dairy sales in more than three decades and a number of promising new programs are just now being put into action."

"Our efforts have launched the industry into a new era of expanded national promotion and research for milk and milk products," said Joseph Westwater, National Dairy Board CEO. He said that commercial use of all milk and milk products increased about 12 billion pounds of milk from 1983 to 1986, adding that though other positive factors have contributed to the dairy industry's success, the Dairy Board's efforts have made a significant difference.

Westwater reported that since the Dairy Board was created in 1983, commercial cheese sales are up 20.2 percent, fluid milk sales 3.5 percent, butter sales 5.25 percent, ice cream 2.6 percent, and nonfat dry milk 7.1 percent. These figures represent an increase in total commercial milk sales of 9.6 percent.

It has been a landmark year for the Board's research activities.

Working with universities and state and regional dairy organizations, the Board recently implemented the Dairy Research Center project which has created six new dairy research centers representing 12 universities. The effort will greatly expand, as well as focus dairy product research and will benefit the dairy industry by furthering its position as leaders in biotechnology. The Board has also strengthened its commitment to product research by sponsoring 51 competitive research projects.

During 1987, the Board took major action to lead the industry to a more focused approach to its nutrition research efforts. It launched the establishment of a "Nutrition, Hypertension and Cardiovascular Disease Research Institute" at Oregon Health Sciences University — a significant first step. It is hoped that the Institute will become a prototype for future research efforts in other areas including diet and heart disease, especially fats in the diet, since this is currently the most pressing research need for the industry.

National Dairy Board Elects Officers, Committee Chairmen

WASHINGTON — At its third annual meeting May 21 to 22 in Washington D.C., the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board elected its officers and Committee Chairman for the 1988 fiscal year.

Louis Calcagno, Moss Landing, Calif., was elected chairman; Carl Butler, Pine Plains, N.Y., vice-chairman; John Malcheski, Pulaski, Wis., secretary; and John Widger, Ellicottville, N.Y., treasurer.

The 36-member, dairy farmer board also elected chairmen for its seven operating committees. The committees and chairmen are as follows.

Advertising and sales promotion Louis Hinders, Canyon, Tex., chairman, Ivan Strickler, Iola, Kan., vice chairman.

Product research and development: Joe Lyon, Toledo, Iowa, chairman, Audrey Sickinger, Cato, Wis., vice chairman.

Nutrition Research and Education: Ardath De Wall, Shannon, Ill., chairman, Carl Butler, vice chairman.

Program Evaluation: Gerald Sipple, Menomonie, Wis., chairman, John Malcheski, vice chairman.

Industry Communications and Public Relations: Lynn Meikle, Smithfield, Vt., chairman, Gerald Sipple, vice chairman.

Finance and Audit: John Widger, chairman, Ivan Strickler, vice chairman.

Personnel: Louis Calcagno, chairman, Louis Hinders, Canyon, Texas, vice chairman.

The National Dairy Board also passed a resolution that the full 36-member Board would serve as the organizations' Executive Committee.

Delmarva To Promote Fresh Produce

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Residents of Delmarva and the millions of summertime visitors will be hearing a lot about local luscious produce in the months ahead, thanks to a promotion effort by the States of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

Advertisements on radio, television, billboards and in newspapers will spotlight fresh local produce throughout the season, reminding one and all of the good eating treasurehouse that is the peninsula.

Dubbed the "Delmarva Joint Marketing and Promotion Project," the campaign is a combination effort by farmers, area media, state officials and retailers. The message is simple: "Look for Delmarva produce and help yourself to freshness, quality and flavor."

In 1986, a smaller campaign was undertaken by the agriculture departments of Delaware and Maryland. This year, Virginia has joined in and the campaign will be broader-based and last longer - starting in Mid-June and continuing into October.

As a member of the project steering committee stated, "It's easy to forget just how much fresh produce we grow right here on Delmarva. We are host to millions of summertime visitors and we'd like to make our message stick with them as well so when they go home they will look for Delmarva produce in their stores."

Tobacco Growers

Tobacco Co., a major buyer of Type 41, notes that decreasing demand for chewing-type tobaccos is the major reason for the softening market.

Martin, whose firm paid an average of 90 cents a pound for last year's crop of Type 41, said Lancaster Leaf's purchases were down 20 to 25 percent from last year.

"There's still some good tobacco out there that has not been bought, but I think a large percentage of what's left has some damage," says Martin.

effectively eliminated the market for damaged tobacco, Martin believes demand for high quality Type 41 will continue. "I think that farmers that traditionally grow an excellent crop will generally be able to sell it," he said.

Anticipating lower demand for chewing tobacco, some growers have decided to cut back on production. Landisville-area grower Amos Roland decreased his acreage from 20 to 12 acres in an effort to keep supplies more in tune with demand. "By cutting back you can up your quality, too," he says.

AGRIPRO™ SOYBEANS
NUMBER ONE IN RESEARCH

AP-350
Tests prove it outyields Williams and Mitchell.
- Group IV maturity pureline soybean variety.
- Bred to outyield varieties such as Williams 82, Union and Mitchell.
- Excellent field resistance to Phytophthora root rot.
- Good iron chlorosis resistance.
- Excellent shattering resistance.

HP-2530
HP-2530 is an outstanding mid Group II variety with exceptional yield capability. Very good emergence and standability. Good field resistance to Phytophthora. Good narrow row adaptability. Three days earlier than Beeson 80.

AP 3023
AP 3023 is an early Group III variety. For maximum yield and stress tolerance, it's hard to top AP 3023. High resistance to Phytophthora root rot. AP 3023 has very good resistance to shattering, protecting your yield when harvest is slightly delayed.

AP 4321
A short bean that's long on yield.
AP 4321 matures about 3 days later than Williams 82, and about 1 day later than AP 350. It has excellent stalk strength, and good narrow root adaptation. It shows good field resistance to Phytophthora root rot and very good resistance to shattering.

AP 3132
New for 1987!
Big Yielder.
AP 3132 is an early Group III variety, with its ability to produce high yields making it an excellent choice. AP 3132 tied for 4th place in the 1986 soybean variety trials conducted by Penn State University at Landisville Research Farm.

Buy Healthy Transplants

MEDIA — When buying vegetable plants to transplant in your garden, Susan Goldsworthy, Delaware County Cooperative Extension horticulturalist, reminds you to check their quality. The best plant has a healthy green color and shows no symptoms of disease or insect feeding. The plant should be stocky and hardened only enough to allow it to stand outdoor conditions.

A stocky plant has been given enough space to grow well. A thin, tall spindly plant results when plants are crowded. The color of the plants can tell a story, too. Lush, light green plants may be too succulent to withstand setting out in the open. Such plants have not gone through the hardening process of gradually reduced temperatures and water.

Plants that are too tough from overhardening are frequently of poor color and may be stunted. These plants will be slower to resume growth when you set them in your garden and will mature much later than a more desirable plant.

Blackened leaves on plants may indicate frost injury. Air pollution affects plant foliage, too, but the symptoms of pollution damage depends on many factors. Take the time to look over the plants you buy. The results may be a better garden and fewer plants that die or spread diseases.

Guernsey Breeders

Guernsey Breeders, invited all Guernsey enthusiasts to Washington for the 1988 convention.

Several prominent Guernsey enthusiasts were honored at the final activity of the convention, the annual awards luncheon held on Monday.

Doug Wilson, director of genetic programs for 21st Century Genetics, Shawano, Wis., presented Gene Meyer of Hoard's Dairyman with the 1987 Distinguished Service Award.

Meyer's accomplishments include his hobby of working with and for the Guernsey breed. He is the manager of Hoards' Guernsey herd in Wisconsin. Since Meyer became manager, the herd's average has increased from 7,000 pounds of milk and 350 pounds of fat in 1948 to 18,000 pounds of milk and 750 pounds of fat in 1987. A quote used by friends to describe Meyer is: "You can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy."

Dick Chichester presented Jack Dendel of Dendel's Orchard in Michigan with the Master Breeder Award.

J.F. Cavanaugh, secretary-treasurer of the American Guernsey Association, presented Danny Weaver, Agri-Graphics Ltd. in Illinois, with a special citation.

Production awards presented at the annual meeting are as follow:

The Liebers Trophy went to Royal Paulson Champion for a production of 247,232 pounds of milk. She is owned by the Royal Paulson Champion Syndicate of North Carolina.

James Assink of Washington state received the Valley Set Award for the production of 10,861 pounds of fat by his cow Northlyn Dariboy Deb.

The New England Guernsey Breeders Association award went to Todd Hipp, South Carolina, for Royal Paulson Champion's ME record of 35,230 pounds of milk and 1,262 pounds of fat in 305 days. She started the recored as a 10 year old. Hipps owned Champion before the North Carolina based syndicate purchased her in late 1986.

Ronnie Ray of California received the Tarbell Trophy for the achievement of his 8-year-old cow. Mi Valley Choices Schatsie completed a 305-day ME record of 33,090 pounds of milk and 1,718 pounds of fat.

Marfred Ron Nadia qualified for the Nyala-Bedford Trophy with a ME record at 1 year 10 months of 28,831 pounds of milk and 1,419 pounds of fat in 305 days. Nadia is owned by Todd Laesch, Illinois.

Great cow awards went to: first place — Fox Run AFC Faye, John Housely, Tennessee; second place — Cleverlands Nances Judy Jean, Ray Orisio, Oregon; third place — Western Glow Fames Virtue, J.E. Bowden, Tennessee; fourth place — Virtue of Aldarra, Bowden; and fifth place — UVM Princess Ramona, Michael Hurst, Indiana.

Yost Honored

At the conclusion of the convention the Pennsylvania Guernsey breeders took time to honor one of their own — Lee Yost, the retiring business manager for the state organization.

John Marchezak and Albert Hack related some of the highlights of Yost's career as business manager of the Association and as a dairy farmer.

In the early year's of Yost's career he established four major goals.

The first goal was to breed a cow that would make a world record. Yost accomplished this with Wyno Hero Yala who as a 2-year-old produced 17,152 pounds of milk and 765 pounds of fat in 305 days. This record has been broken several times since it was made.

They noted that Yost's second goal was to judge a national show in 1962 and for this he was featured on the cover of Hoard's Dairyman.

His third ambition was to breed an animal that would sell for more than $20,000. In 1964 Yost sold a young bull to a breeding cooperative for $21,500.

The fourth goal Yost established for himself was to win the Klussendorf Trophy. In 1975 Yost was this award at the National Dairy Show in Madison, Wis.

After five years as a fieldman for the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association, Yost became the business manager for the group in 1978.

In honor of his accomplishments and dedication to the Guernsey breed, the 1987 national Guernsey convention was dedicated to Yost.

Alan Kozak, a 1984 Penn State graduate with a bachelor of science degree in dairy production, has been hired to replace Yost.

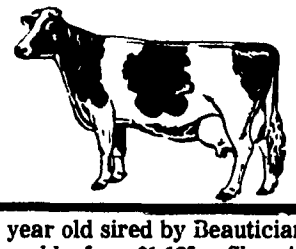
Major Dairy Sales And Dispersals Nationwide



Reports from eight sales for the week of May 21 to 27 averaged $2,121.63 on 815 head. The top prices ranged from $214,913 to $1,125. The sales were held in Wisconsin, Maine, Illinois, New Jersey, Virginia, Ohio, Ontario and Quebec.

Here is a brief look at the results of the sales this week.

AYSHIRE

The BRIARWOOD DISPERSAL held in Virginia averaged $587.31 on 67 head. The 23 milk cows averaged $707.39; 14 2 and 3 year olds averaged 669.64; 17 short-bred heifers averaged $514; eight open heifers averaged $409; and five young calves averaged $340 with a $420 top.

A 5 year old topped the sale on a bid of $1,325. Sired by Heb-Ayr Major, she owns a top record of 17,410 milk with 663 fat. She was milking 70 pounds on the day of the sale.

The second high price of $940 came on a daughter of Valu-Ayr Liberator Remus. Milking 70 pounds on the sale day, she completed a 2-year-old record with 13,882 milk and 546 fat.

Buyers came from five states. A Georgian buyer purchased 14 head for a gross of $10,760. The good uddered animals were sold unclipped and unwashed, "in their work clothes," according to sale manager Tom Whittaker.

Denny Remsburg served as auctioneer for the sale.

BROWN SWISS

The DELRIVIEW FARM SALE held in New Jersey averaged $700 on 89 head.

Three animals sold for the top price of $1,125. First to sell at this price was a 5-year-old daughter of Delriview Sara Georgie Boy. She sold bred and due in December to Royce. She owns a top record of 12,000 milk.

A 3 year old sired by Beautician King sold for $1,125. She is projected at 13,500 milk in her first lactation.

Also selling at this price was a bred heifer sired by Beautician King and due in August to a farm bull.

Mel Manasse served as auctioneer for the sale managed by Col. Fred Daniels Company. Wayne Sliker read pedigrees.

JERSEY

The SECOND MORGANSTEAD MERIT SALE held in Ohio averaged $1,669 on 61 head.

Topping the sale on bid of $4,100 was a 5-year-old cow by Soldiers Pride. The 80-point cow produced a top record of 7,750 milk, 412 fat, and 316 protein in 305 days. She was bred to Duncan in April.

Her dam, an 88-point Sleeping Surville daughter, averaged 15,749 milk and 622 fat in three lactations.

The second best price of the sale, $4,000, came on a 5-year-old daughter of Favorite Saint. The VG-87 cow produced a 287-day record of 11,880 milk, 572 fat, and 471 protein. Her MCD stands at plus 2,927 milk, plus $404, and plus $427 cheese yield.

Merlin Woodruff served as auctioneer for the sale. The Jersey Marketing Service and Roy Stuckey co-managed the sale.

HOLSTEIN

The MILTON PIPER ESTATE COMPLETE DISPERSAL held in Wisconsin averaged $1,265 on 134 head.

Selling for $5,400 and the top price of the sale was an EX-90 4-year-old cow. Sired by Harmony Corners Simon-Twin, she registered a best effort of 19,990 milk and 726 fat in 365 days. She will freshen in August to Mark.

Classified VG-87, her dam produced a top record of 16,640 milk and 703 fat in 337 days.

A July 1986 heifer by Triple Threat sold for $3,800, the second high price of the sale.

Her dam, an EX-92 Christmas daughter, produced a top unofficial record of 22,792 milk and 779 fat on a 3X schedule. The next dam classified Excellent.

Also netting a bid of $3,800 was a 7-year-old daughter of Paclamar Astronaut. Classified EX-90, she completed a high, unofficial record of 22,193 milk and 827 fat. She was due at sale time to Starlite Al.

Keith Stump handled the auctioneering assignment and Alvin Piper managed the sale.

The OAK RIDGES SALE held in Ontario averaged $3,705.09 on 227 head.

A 3 year old sold for the top price of $214,913. Classified Very Good, she produced a top effort of 25,816 milk and 996 fat. Sired by Browndale Sir Christopher, she sold fresh and with a BCA of 251 milk, 263 fat. She sold with a guarantee of 10 pregnancies.

Her dam, an Excellent Elevation daughter, owns a top record of 20,514 milk with a 4.9 test.

The second dam, 4E-97-GMD, completed a high lactation of 21,307 milk, 1,087 fat and a 5.1 test. Her lifetime record is 209,784 milk and 9,471 fat. She earned the title of first Queen of the Breed.

The second high bid of $39,075 came on a 7-year-old Triple Threat daughter. Classified Very Good, she completed a top record of 22,368 milk, 994 fat, and 904 protein. She sold with a pregnancy guarantee.

She is out of an Excellent Count Crystan dam with records to 26,587 milk and 1,045 fat. The third dam is an Excellent Fond Memory daughter with a top record of 28,056 milk and 1,054.

A 2 year old sold for the third high bid of $31,260. Sired by Warden, she is projected at 16,500 milk in her first lactation. She will freshen with a Valiant calf in November.

Bob Shore and Sonny Bartel shared the auctioneering assignment. David Bachman read pedigrees. Shore Holsteins and Hays Farms co-managed the sale.

The EIGHTH QUEBEC SPRING SALE averaged $2,068.63 on 91 head.

A bid of $11,723 on a bred heifer topped the sale. Sired by Starbuck, she is out of a Good Plus dam with a BCA of 174 milk, 174 fat and a top record of 17,600 milk and 660 fat. The next two dams classified Very Good.

Securing a price of $7,034 was another Starbuck daughter. The September 1986 calf is out of a Very Good Mark Anthony dam with a BCA of 222 milk, 218 fat.

David Crack served as auctioneer and manager for the sale.

The FOCUS ON GENETICS SALE held in Illinois averaged $6,066 on 81 head.

A 3 year old sired by Enhancer netted the high price of $57,000. Fresh in March, her record in progress stands at 7,180 milk and 320 fat in 75 days on a 3X schedule. She sold with $20,000 worth of AI contracts and a guarantee of 15 transferable embryos over a two-year period.

Classified Very Good, her dam produced a high record of 34,080 milk and 1,174 fat. She carries a Cow Index of plus 1,916 milk, 43 fat, and 39 protein.

The next high bid of $56,000 came on a VG-87 Valiant daughter. The 6 year old red carrier produced a best effort of 33,708 milk and 1,112 fat in 365 days. She sold with $40,000 worth of AI and embryo contracts.

Her dam, a red VG-87 daughter of Dapple Dale Pure Gold, completed a high lactation of 25,000 milk as a 9 year old.

MILKING SHORTHORN

The SEYON FARM DISPERSAL held in Maine averaged an unofficial $912 on 65 head. The average breakdown is as follows: 42 cows averaged $971, 11 bred heifers averaged $768, 12 open heifers averaged $827, six March and April calves averaged $487.

Topping the sale with a bid of $3,200 was an April 1986 heifer. The open heifer placed as the Reserve All-American Junior Heifer Calf in 1986. Sired by New Park Gay King, she is out of a Flintstone Pioneer Duke dam.

Her dam classified VG-87 and produced a top record of 12,070 milk and 440 fat in 310 days. The next dam, an 84-point cow, owns a lifetime record in 2,747 days of 89,309 milk and 3,181 fat.

Second high in the bidding was a Korncrest Pacesetter daughter. The 4-year-old cow sold for $2,200. She produced a top effort in 283 days of 9,820 milk and 389 fat and was fresh on Jan. 1, 1987.

Her dam, an Excellent daughter of Roo View Falcon, completed a high lactation of 14,520 milk and 602 fat with a 4.1 test.

The third high price of $1,900 came on a 5-year-old New Park Gay King daughter. She placed as the grand champion and best udder of the Eastern National Show in 1986 and was the honorable mention 4 year old in 1986. She will freshen in late September to Korncrest Pacesetter. The VG-87 cow's record in progress stands at 5,530 milk with a 4.3 test in 184 days.

Owner and sale co-manager Charles Noyes decided to disperse his herd at age 85 when it was no longer feasible to continue for a variety of reasons. Paul MacDonald served as auctioneer. Sam Yoder read pedigrees and co-managed the sale with Noyes.

Farmers And Forests

plots in the New Holland borough.

Using irrigation equipment, manure will be applied to three one-acre test plots. One plot is forested, a second has been clearcut and a third has been clearcut and planted with Japanese larch, hybrid poplar and black locust trees. Manure will be applied at a rate that will provide 200 pounds of nitrogen per care, and three identical test plots will serve as controls, receiving no added nutrients.

The risk of nutrients leaching into groundwater is minimal at the 200-pound rate, according to Dr. William Sopper, professor of forest hydrology at Penn State. Sopper, who has been involved with the application of sewage sludge to forests for the past 20 years, says forests can actually absorb more nutrients than cropland. While farmers aiming for 150-bushel corn yields can normally apply 150 pounds of nitrogen to the acre, an acre of clearcut forestland can safely utilize up to 500 pounds of nitrogen, Sopper points out.

In order to keep track of the movement of nitrogen and soluble phosphorus in groundwater, Penn State is installing lysimeters which will take monthly water samples at two- and four-foot depths.

Sopper says that applying sewage sludge to timberland has resulted in dramatic increases in growth rate. "I would expect a similar situation with manure," he says, pointing out that livestock manure contains basically the same nutrients as sewage sludge without the heavy metals.

While commercial fertilizers aren't normally used in timber production because of the expense involved, Sopper says forests are an excellent outlet for both excess sewage sludge and livestock manure when they're available. "Practically all of Seattle's sludge goes on forests," says the researcher, adding that the waste is trucked in cake form up to 80 miles to woodland, where it is then diluted to between 10 and 12 percent solids for spray application. "You get tremendous growth in trees," Sopper emphasized, pulling a cross-sectioned wafer of a Douglas fir tree from his pocket. Tightly grouped growth rings in the center of the sample revealed slow growth for the first 20 years of the tree's life. The widely spaced rings that followed revealed a three-fold increase in growth rate in the six years following a single application of sludge.

The hog manure to be applied on the New Holland land will be about 5 percent solids, says Breneisen. Sopper predicts that the effects of one application of the manure may not carry over for as many years as it would if the solution contained a higher percentage of solids, and one of the goals of the project is to find out how often the manure needs to be applied to realize optimal growth. Breneisen says the irrigation equipment is capable of spraying a solution containing from 5 to 8 percent solids.

Regional manure management specialist Mitch Woodward estimates that the 203,000 tons of hog manure produced in Lancaster County annually could fertilize 10,152 acres. Although dairy manure, as it's expelled from the animal, is about 13 percent solids, Woodward says that adding wastewater from the milkhouse might thin the slurry enough to be irrigated.

The New Holland project is being funded by the Chesapeake Bay Program, since applying manure to woodland could potentially reduce nutrient loads on cropland and the resulting surface and groundwater pollution.

German Native Brings Egg Decorating Expertise To Farm Museum

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

LANCASTER — The art of decorating eggs has a long history in European tradition and that art form was brought to the United States by early immigrants. At the Pennsylvania Farm Museum of Landis Valley, visitors had the opportunity to watch West German native Brigitte Raab demonstrate the wax reserve technique of egg decorating, an intricate decorative art.

Raab actually brought along other samples of her fine egg decorating skill, including an ostrich egg and goose eggs decorated with a built up wax technique.

Growing up in the Frankfurt area of Germany, Raab says she learned the technique from her grandmother. She recalls, "We did it in the family, and for Easter would decorate about 10 eggs to give to friends. We didn't know it was something special until we grew up."

Although she has done the decorating "since early childhood," her interest was rekindled when she worked as a teacher and decided she wanted to show the children in the cities this old, rural custom. "Very few knew of the old art," she points out.

Indeed, her art is something special, and was much appreciated by those visiting the Museum. Decorating the eggs can take as little as one half hour, but can also take three to four hours. To have enough eggs to sell, Raab shipped 70 of the fragile objects from Germany, carefully packed in egg cartons. Not one was broken in shipment. When she resold them, she carefully wrapped them in facial tissue, then placed them in a plastic cup for carrying.

Raab also demonstrated her technique, explaining that she has adapted centuries' old techniques and continues to use designs that are old.

For her wax designs, she uses a combination of beeswax and white candle wax, primarily because of the high cost of beeswax. She dyes it in greens and browns, and uses a dried stalk of grass for applying the wax.

She noted that grasses have a knob, and it is this knob which she uses to apply the wax. To make a smaller design, she will put either plastic headed or steel headed pins into the end of the grass "brush." She said feathers were often used for this step.

In her wax reserve method of decorating, she draws the design on the egg and then covers it with wax. Then she removes the wax from the portion she wishes to dye, carefully working in layers to create interesting colors and effects.

When all the dying and designs have been finished, the egg must be heated and the rest of the wax removed. She points out that the small holes used for blowing out the contents of the egg must be carefully sealed with wax before beginning the project. Removing all the wax at the completion of the egg decorating will also remove the pencil guidelines.

Raab said she has a friend who does the Ukranian method of wax resistant painting and uses different tools. In 1977 they were wishing to market their eggs and established an egg market in Switzerland. There were about 30 people displaying many different

Homestead Notes

Southeastern Pennsylvanians Get A History Lesson On German Emigration

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

LANCASTER — Many people in southeastern Pennsylvania are descendents of the Germans who emigrated to this country from the Palatinate region of Germany. Last weekend, there was an unusual opportunity to see that region of Germany and learn about the emigration from a West German native, Elke Schwang.

Schwang grew up in Landau in the Palatinate and works in a folk culture museum there. From her perspective, she offered information on the emigration and showed slides of the region, which is startlingly similar to southeastern Pennsylvania.

Schwang said, "The land is fertile here, the climate is mild." This was appealing to those who couldn't be free in their religion and, she noted, the emigrants also left Germany because of crop failures and famine.

By the mid-nineteenth century the political situation was such that all the leaders of a revolt chose to flee the country. She said it was these leaders who enjoyed positions as editors, printers and journalists in their second home, and who were in a position "to fight for equal rights and religious freedom."

Those who came were often skilled, and it was such a German immigrant responsible for the famous Conestoga wagon and the Pennsylvania rifle.

She explained that another reason for political turmoil in the Palatinate was the occupation and devastation of the land by the French on more than one occasion. Schwang noted that from the migrations that began at the end of the 17th century, more than one half million had emigrated from the Palatinate to North America.

Schwang explained that even many Swiss families began their outward migration to the United States by moving first to the Palatinate, and then making the trip across the ocean, a trip which took 72 days in the mid-nineteenth century.

The farmhouse in which she grew up dated from 1523, and it may have been there that Schwang's interest in the past was piqued. In any case, she has a large personal collection of antiques, many of which are similar to items found in the Landis Valley Farm Museum. She explained, "Of course, people brought items with them that they used. They brought things that were important to them."

Early farm tools and household items made up many of her slides. She showed butter churns and cookie cutters which are familiar to this area. One unusual cookie cutter is made in an initial, which Schwang says was a tradition in her family She has a cookbook of her grandmother's which she continues to use

She also has a coffee pot which belonged to her great grandparents and "stood on the oven all day with coffee." Baking molds of all kinds were shown.

In her slide presentation, Schwang showed a birth certificate from her family dating from 1799, as well as baptism and confirmation certificates, most printed by a minister or teacher because so many people could not read or write.

Schwang showed a collection of baskets and explained that she could remember the basketmaker coming to their home in the winter to make new baskets and repair old ones.

An appreciation of old textiles led Schwang to keep many items which were in her family. She has shirts which belonged to her great grandmother, and has a wide variety of samplers which were made by young girls as they learned to sew.

She included many slides showing children's toys which were actually miniatures of things adults used. She showed a tiny dollhouse filled with furniture just the way a home was furnished.

Schwang recalls traveling with her grandfather who was a postman; he took her into many homes as a youngster. She adds, "I knew when I was 10 years old what I wanted and I saved old things. My mother is now so happy when she comes to my home. I like to wear old things and use old things, and not put them away. I have many guests and I use old dishes and linens. Linen things don't wear out and they always look new. Using those things gives an atmosphere."

She is pleased with the interest in antiquities, but says that collecting should only be done "from the heart," not because it is the fashion. She says that when she uses things from her collection, "I feel like they felt."

Schwang met Evelyn Althouse

(Turn to Page B4)

Elke Schwang, right, discusses her visit with Evelyn Althouse, Ephrata, who hosted both German natives while they were in Lancaster County. Schwang presented a slide program on the Palatinate region of Germany, from which a large number of Pennsylvania Germans emigrated.

Egg Decorating

applications for egg decorating at the market, and she sold 300 eggs in one day. Modestly, she claims, "The time was right."

To color large numbers of eggs requires a source for many, many eggs to be blown. Raab said she is employed in a very large bank which has a cafeteria. She said she simply visits the kitchen on days when scrambled eggs are on the menu, and blows about 10 eggs before work. She said, if she does this regularly, and year round, she easily has enough eggs to keep up her avocation. She explains that it is both easier and more hygenic to use a special tool to remove the egg from the shell.

She also likes to color goose eggs, and she has access to ostrich eggs through an acquaintance who imports furs from Africa. He has the ostrich eggs packed among the furs and offers them to Raab in exchange for her painting some of them for him. She said this businessman likes to have the large painted eggs to give as gifts to friends.

This marks the first time Raab has demonstrated at the Farm Museum, and she was a guest of Evelyn Althouse, a long time volunteer at the Museum who teaches workshops on egg scratching. Althouse, herself very knowledgeable about egg decorating, was delighted with the information she obtained from Raab on her short visit.

Althouse said, "I got a college education. She is a wealth of information."

Another method of dying eggs involves using the leaves of unusual plants, and holding them in place on the egg with a nylon stocking. Then the egg is placed in dye, and when it is dyed, the stocking is removed, leaving a white outline of the leaf. The result is striking. Raab made quite of few of these eggs after arriving in this country, using plants from Evelyn's back yard. Althouse says, "I've lived there for 35 years, and I never knew I had some of those plants."

To get beautiful natural dyes, Raab used mountain tea leaves, purple cabbage and vinegar, black walnut leaves, onion skins and other combinations of plants found locally. She remarked, "Evelyn's basement looked like a witch's kitchen."

While she gave her demonstration, Raab was dressed in a beautiful "tracten" or costume which reflected native dress of the area. She explained that she had found the whole costume at a flea market, and it included both the skirt and shawl, as well as stockings, vest and jacket. She said there was a lot to be learned from a costume, including a woman's marital status and her age. Darker colors were favored after 40. Because of the warm, humid weather, Raab used parts of the colorful costume to make a backdrop for her beautifully decorated eggs.

Raab was somewhat apologetic about the price of her art, saying, "It's too bad the dollar has gone down so much. Two to three years before they would have cost one third less."

She also explained that sometimes the decorated eggs were used as "rent" when peasants had to pay one tenth of all they earned as rent. The last egg would be specially decorated for this use.

Raab works as a translator for the bank where she is employed, and has acquired an extensive collection of decorated eggs on her own. Her skill will be enjoyed by those who purchased one of her eggs as well as by those who simply watched and marveled as she demonstrated her talent.

History Lesson

on a visit to the museum about 10 years ago when she visited this area hoping to get in touch with people who "are speaking the dialect." As she explained this to Althouse, Evelyn began speaking in Pennsylvania Dutch, which is very similar to the Palatinate dialect.

Schwang says with amazement, "I was hearing words I had used with my grandparents." Unfortunately, she said the dialect has changed as the social structure has changed. Nevertheless, the chance encounter began a beautiful friendship that has flowered over the years. Schwang says, "She is my Pennsylvania 'Mom'".

Schwang said she especially enjoys visiting this area, because it helps her with her work in Germany. "There is more research done here," she comments.

She is clearly delighted with the information she has been able to find in this area, as well as with the opportunity to speak a dialect which is dear to her heart.

Her appreciation of the lives of her forebears has helped many others learn about their German ancestors.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My husband did something unusual this past weekend. He missed three milkings – something that he has not done for years.

He decided to go fishing in Wycoming County and so he loaded his aluminum boat on his pickup truck together with all of our fishing gear and we left our home at 5:30 a.m. Our daughter lives in this area and she showed us where we could launch our boat in Stevens Lake.

The day was cool, breezy, sunny and altogether pleasant. Our electric motor propelled us past a picturesque beef farm and woodlands. Our catch wasn't that spectacular as we only got a batch of pan fish, but that was better than catching nothing.

I watched dragonflies and red-winged blackbirds flying about the lake. A bullfrog sounded-off in the distance and swallows dipped near the surface of the water.

Our daughter was a wonderful hostess and took us to a nice restaurant and made a big breakfast for us. She even gave up her queen-sized water bed for us.

The next day we tried fishing on the Susquehanna River but instead of catching fish, we had a small adventure. You see, we allowed our boat to drift too far downstream over rapidly flowing water and then we were unable to get back to our vehicle. So, we docked out boat on private land and asked permission to drive the truck there to load the boat.

It surely added an interesting twist to our weekend trip.

Microwave Coverings

Many people have questions about covering food in a microwave. Here's the low-down on microwave cover ups!

Just as in your range, covering food is not always necessary in a microwave. Covering food when you microwave it will do several things, depending on the type of covering you choose.

All coverings hold heat around the food so it cooks a little more evenly. Some coverings also trap steam around the food to steam the food as it cooks. Other covers absorb moisture or grease.

The following list of coverings explains for what purpose each one is used. Choose a covering to fit the type of food you are cooking and how you want it to cook.

Tight Covers

Lids: A tightly fitting casserole lid keeps the heat and moisture (steam) around your food so it heats quickly and remains very moist and damp. Use lids for steam vegetables, pot roasts and stews, rice and pasta, and casseroles where food needs to tenderize or absorb moisture as it cooks.

Plastic Wrap: Plastic wrap is used instead of a lid to cover dishes and serving bowls that have no lids. Use it for the same foods mentioned above, and do not use it unless you want your food to be steamed.

Plastic wrap may melt from the heat of steam or the food it touches, especially meat fats. Try to keep it from touching the food by wrapping it over the top of the dish containing the food. Microwaves will not melt the plastic wrap, the heat from the food does this.

If your plastic wrap melts, switch to a brand that says "for microwave use" on the box. These are made of a different type of plastic than other (cheaper) brands, and will not melt as easily.

When using plastic wrap, "vent" it (leave one corner open a little), to prevent a tightly sealed container from exploding from the steam pressure inside.

Oven Cooking Bags: These are used like a casserole and lid or plastic wrap: to steam, simmer, or braise food so moist heat can tenderize it. Do not fasten bag closed with a metal twist tie, it causes arcing. Tie the open end loosely closed with a plastic fastener or cut a strip of plastic off the open end of the bag.

Loose Coverings

Waxed Paper: Waxed paper traps heat around the food, yet lets most of the steam escape, so food is not steamed. Loosely covered food cooks more evenly than uncovered food. Waxed paper also cuts down on spatters in the oven.

Use waxed paper for covering roasts, poultry and other tender meats you are roasting, for reheating food, and for covering bar cookies. Use it for casseroles you would cook uncovered in your range oven, to help them microwave more evenly.

Commercial waxed paper is so thinly waxed that the wax, if any should get on your food, is not noticeable or harmful. Other types of waxed products, such as milk cartons or waxed product coverings should not be used for cooking.

Paper Towels or Napkins: As a top covering, these are similar to waxed paper, but they will also absorb moisture from the food. Use on top of food to reduce spattering in the oven.

Paper towels are also used underneath bacon, hamburgers, etc. to absorb the grease. Use them under sandwiches, rolls, pizza, etc. to absorb the steam that makes bread products soggy on the bottom.

No Covers

Foods that are stirred frequently do not need to be covered, such as puddings, gravy, etc. Also, I don't cover cakes I microwave. When cakes are covered, the top cooks more quickly than the bottom and it is difficult to tell when they are done.

Foods that are cooked uncovered in your range may be microwaved uncovered. However, a loose cover will help them cook more evenly in the center.

Shielding

Aluminum Foil: Never completely cover food you are cooking in your microwave with foil. Microwaves can't penetrate foil, so the food would not cook (and you'd probably ruin your oven!).

Small amounts of foil CAN be used in your microwave as a "shield" to protect food from overcooking. Shield the corners of square baking pans, the ends of drumsticks and wings on poultry, and the edges of roasts. Use shielding when you are defrosting too, if one area thaws too quickly.

When you use foil for shielding, keep the pieces of foil small. Keep the foil in the center of the oven, over one inch away from the walls or door. Do not let foil touch other metal. such as an oven rack or TV dinner tray.

As a safety precaution, look through the window when you turn on the power to make sure there is no arcing (sparks) from the foil. If you see arching, stop the oven immediately and reposition or remove the foil.

Lamb And Wool Festival To Offer 4-H, FFA Exhibits

STATE COLLEGE – "Sheep's Role in Conservation" is the 1987 theme for 4-H and FFA exhibit competition at the Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Festival, scheduled for July 10 through 11.

The Festival will be held at the Ag Arena in State College. Any Pennsylvania 4-H Club or FFA Chapter may enter the competition. All work must be completed by the youth who have entered.

The theme, "Sheep's Role in Conservation," allows a wide variety of interpretation. Exhibits will be judged on originality, educational value, creativity and neatness. Prize money will be awarded to the club or chapter participating.

First prize of $40 is offered while second prize receives $30; third, $20 and fourth, $10.

To enter the exhibit competition, contact Mrs. Shirley Harpster, Exhibit Coordinator, P.O. Box 146, Boalsburg, PA 16827. Telephone (814) 466-6669. Entry deadline is June 15, 1987.

The Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Festival will feature more than 45 commercial and craft exhibitors and seven areas of competition with $100 in premiums offered. In conjunction with the Festival will be the Keystone Stud Ram and Ewe Sale with more than 500 sheep entered.

Lancaster Dairymen Plan Festivities

Make Cookouts Part Of Your Summer

Along with baseball, lazy days at the seashore and and garden-fresh produce, summer's list of delights includes cookouts and picnics. If hamburgers and hotdogs are your traditional barbecue fare, you may want to add a little variety to the menu by trying a few of the recipes below.

No doubt about it, hotdogs and hamburgers didn't get to be the most popular barbecue choices by chance; these old-standbys are reliable and tasty. But the smoky flavor imparted by the charcoal grill makes lots of other foods tastier too!

Chicken, pork and other cuts of beef make wonderful cookout entrees whether you're serving the entire neighborhood or just the family. Round out your picnic menu without your favorite salads and a few sweet treats for dessert!

BEEF YAKITORI

¾ cup chicken broth
½ cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon ground ginger
2 garlic cloves, minced
1½ pounds beef sirloin, cut into ¾-inch lengths
12 green onions cut in 1-inch lengths
2 8-ounce cans water chestnuts, drained

Combine broth, soy sauce, sugar, ginger and garlic, mixing well. Place beef cubes in bowl and pour sauce mixture over. Let beef marinate ½ hour, stirring occasionally.

Arrange half the beef cubes on skewers, alternating with pieces of green onion. Alternate the remaining beef cubes with water chestnuts. Broil or grill over charcoal about 3 minutes on each side or until beef is done to taste, brushing occasionally with marinade.

HEARTY BEAN SALAD

Sweet-Sour Dressing:
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash pepper
½ cup plain yogurt
Salad:
1 15½-ounce can kidney beans, drained
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped sweet pickle
¼ teaspoon salt

For dressing, combine sugar, vinegar, salt, mustard, Worcestershire and pepper; fold in yogurt. Chill, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. For salad, combine beans, eggs, celery, onion, pickle and salt in a bowl. Add dressing; toss lightly. Chill 1 to 2 hours.

SAVORY BEEF BLADE STEAK

1 beef chuck blade steak, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick (approximately 2 pounds)
½ cup red wine vinegar
½ cup water
1 medium onion, chopped
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon basil leaves
¼ teaspoon celery seed
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Combine vinegar, water, onion, sugar, salt, basil, celery seed and pepper in small saucepan and cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Place steak in utility dish or plastic bag; add marinade, turning to coat. Cover dish or tie bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight), turning at least once. Remove steak from marinade. Place on grill over ash-covered coals so surface of meat is 4 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature 7 to 10 minutes on each side, depending on degree of doneness desired (rare or medium). Makes 4 servings.

SUPER BARBECUED SPARERIBS

2 slabs meaty spareribs
3 cups water
1 cup white vinegar
Garlic powder
Paprika
Barbecue seasoning salt
Barbecue sauce (see recipe below)
Orange
Pineapple
Parsley

Trim spareribs of any excess fat. Put ribs on roasting pan; add water and vinegar. Marinate ribs for 2 to 4 hours, turning every half hour. Remove ribs from marinade and drain. Sprinkle both sides lightly with garlic powder, paprika and barbecue seasoning salt. Place ribs on grill when charcoal has a good gray covering. Turn ribs frequently so as not to burn. Cook about 1 hour or until ribs appear to be thoroughly barbecued. Brush ribs with Barbecue Sauce; warm sauce and serve with ribs. Garnish with oranges, pineapple or parsley, if desired. Makes 4 generous servings. Enjoy!

Barbecue Sauce

1 32-ounce bottle tomato based barbecue sauce
1 20-ounce bottle catsup
2 6-ounce bottles thick, rich, spicy steak sauce
½ cup grape juice or water
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
4 tablespoons liquid smoke
½ teaspoon garlic powder

In saucepan, combine all ingredients; mix well. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes. Makes about 2 quarts.

SOUTHERN PORK CHOPS

8 pork butterfly chops, cut 1¼ inches thick
2 cups water
1¼ cups catsup
½ cup apricot nectar
½ cup brown sugar, packed
2½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1¼ tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons honey
1¼ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon horseradish sauce
½ teaspoon paprika

Combine all ingredients, except pork chops, in saucepan; bring to a rolling boil. Remove from heat; let cool. Place chops and marinade in pan; do not pierce with fork. Place chops in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours. Turn chops occasionally. Remove chops from marinade and place on grill 6 to 8 inches above coals. Cook over low heat 8 minutes, turn. Continue to turn and baste frequently for one hour. Makes 8 servings.

Tender chunks of beef sirloin marinated in a soy sauce mixture are the highlight of Beef Yakitori, a kabob which also offers Chinese vegetables.

OATMEAL WHOOPIE PIES

2 cups brown sugar
¾ cup margarine
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
2 cups oatmeal
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons soda, dissolved in 3 tablespoons boiling water

Cream together sugar, margarine and eggs. Add salt, flour, oatmeal, cinnamon and baking powder. Add soda and water last. Beat well. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350°F. for 10 minutes.

Filling

2 egg whites
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 tablespoons milk
4 cups powdered sugar
1 cup shortening

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Spread between two cookies.

Berlin

LOTSA CHIPS BARS

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup packed brown sugar
1 egg
1½ teaspoons vanilla
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup chopped unsalted peanuts
1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Stir together flour and baking soda; set aside. In large mixer bowl, beat butter or margarine for 30 seconds. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Add the flour and soda; beat well. Stir in rolled oats and peanuts. Spread mixture into a greased 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkle chocolate pieces over top. Bake in a 350°F. oven for 4 minutes. Remove from oven; cut through dough with knife to marble. Bake 15 minutes more. Cut into bars while warm. Makes 24.

POULET MIGNON

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, boned
8 slices mozzarella cheese
8 strips thick bacon
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

On flat surface, place boned chicken thigh, skin-side down. Place cheese slice inside thigh, gently wrapping thigh around cheese. Check to be sure cheese is tightly enclosed; secure with food pick. Attach one end of bacon strip to food pick and wrap remainder of bacon around thigh several times. Secure with 6-inch wooden or metal skewer, penetrating through entire mignon. Repeat for all thighs. Place thighs on grill, skin side up, 6 to 8 inches from heat. Turn every 3 to 5 minutes for even cooking. Grill for about 40 to 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove chicken from grill; add salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

Honey Dipped Chicken

3 to 4 pound frying chicken or thighs
4 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
½ cup honey
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper (or to taste)

Wash chicken, pat dry. Melt margarine in shallow pan. Stir in remaining ingredients Roll chicken in mixture, coating all sides Place meaty side up in a single layer in same pan. Bake at 375°F for 1½ hours, basting every 15 minutes.

ANSWER - Lydia Glick, New Holland, requested recipes for brownies. Thanks go to Leah Peachey, Gordonville, and Anna Glick, Coatesville, for sharing the following recipes.

Fudgey Brownies

¾ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon baking soda
⅔ cup vegetable oil
½ cup boiling water (measure accurately)
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1⅓ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt

Stir cocoa and baking soda in mixing bowl. Blend in ⅓ cup of the vegetable oil. Add boiling water; stir until mixture thickens. Stir in sugar, eggs, and remaining ⅓ cup vegetable oil; stir until smooth. Add flour, vanilla and salt; blend completely. Pour into lightly greased 13x9-inch baking pan or 2 8-inch square pans. Bake at 350°F. for 35 to 40 minutes for 13x9-inch pan, 30 to 32 minutes for 8-inch square pans. Cool; frost if desired.

Yum Yum Brownies

2 cups granulated sugar
¾ cup butter and lard combined
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup cocoa
½ cup chopped nuts

Cream sugar and shortening well. Add eggs, vanilla and nuts. Sift together flour, salt, and cocoa; add to sugar mixture and stir well. Bake in greased and floured 8x14-inch pan in a 350°F. oven, until it shrinks from edges of pan; about 20 minutes. Let cool and cut into squares.

Cookout Recipes

KABOB COOKERY

¼ cup chopped green onions with tops
¼ cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ginger
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 pounds beef sirloin tip
Green pepper slices, precooked
Zucchini slices, precooked
Cherry tomates
Mushrooms
Canned whole onions
Melted butter

Combine onion, soy sauce, sugar, pepper, ginger and garlic. Trim and cut meat into 1½-inch cubes. Pour marinade over meat and stir to coat. Cover and marinate 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Arrange vegetables and meat on large platter. Alternate any combination of vegetables with meat on skewers. Brush vegetables with butter. Grill over medium-hot coals 4 to 5 minutes, turning to brown on all sides or until desired degree of doneness. Serve with Snappy Mustard and Sharp Creamy Sauce.

Snappy Mustard Sauce

¾ teaspoon EACH: dry mustard, Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
1 cup dairy sour cream

Combine mustard, Worcestershire sauce and garlic salt. Fold in sour cream. Chill to blend flavors. Makes 1 cup.

Sharp Creamy Sauce

½ cup seafood cocktail sauce
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon onion powder
½ cup dairy sour cream

SHRIMP AND SHELL SALAD

1 pound frozen peeled and deveined shrimp
8 ounces small pasta shells
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup thinly sliced radishes
⅓ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped green onion
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup cottage cheese
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Cook shrimp and shells separately, according to package directions. Rinse both with cold water; drain well. Toss with celery, radishes, green pepper and onion. Combine sour cream, cottage cheese, seasoned salt and pepper; fold into shrimp mixture. Chill 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend. Serve on salad greens.

OATMEAL PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

¼ cup shortening
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
¼ cup water
2 eggs
1 cup peanut butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup grated carrot
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
3 cups rolled oats, quick cooking

Preheat oven to 375°F. Cream shortening and sugar. Blend in water, eggs, peanut butter, vanilla and carrot. Sift flour, soda and salt together, and stir into other ingredients. Stir in oats until completely moistened. Roll dough into 1-inch diameter balls and place on greased baking sheet. Press balls flat with fork. Bake 10 to 12 minutes.

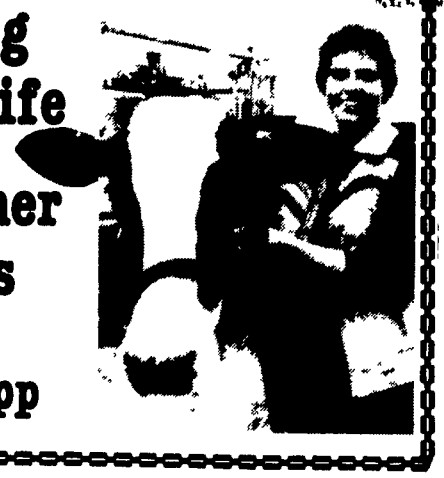
On being a farm wife - And other hazards



Joyce Bupp

"How would you like to go pick up some parts?"

Certainly. After all, I had just offered to help with whatever needed done on this day with more jobs than there were hands to get them done. Actually, most days on most farms seem to fall into that category.

Repair parts for vital pieces of farm equipment are the agricuultural parallel of human organ transplants. Without the insertion of these life-giving replacements, equipment sits idle and farmer frustration levels rise to uncomoftable — dangerous even — heights.

So, into my trusty organ-transfer-delivery-service vehicle (my faithful little K-car) I crawl. We head East in search of an equipment dealer guarding parts without which the manure spreader won't live up to its name.

It is one of those misty May mornings when clouds hover close overhead, and humidity muddles the air to slicing consistency. Through the cloudiness, horizons are veiled and fog seems to hang over a world that the cool dampness has nurtured to lush green.

Still, the deep green is not monotonous, but serves as a perfect foil for the hues of azaleas at their peak. Their red, coral and pink brilliance dot the landscape as I head southeast toward the Susquehanna, like splashes of paint on a kelly green canvas.

Proximity to the river is first announced with a sign noting maggots for sale at a bait shop. Maggots? Yeccht! Just a few days before, our family fisherperson (the youngest) had stuck before my face a plastic container of those replusive larvae intended for a hook. But when the chickens upset the container a bit later, gobbling up the bait, he scrapped the fishing plans.

Checking the progress of field crops along the way becomes second nature after being a farm wife for so many years. Corn was up a couple of inches and barley was down a few feet, under the weight of fattening heads and recent heavy rains. Likewise, a bumper crop of yard and garage sale signs sprouted on trees and posts in plenteous bounty. No fertilizer or spray needed even.

The engineering majesty of the Norman Wood bridge span across the lower Susquehanna never fails to leave me a shade awestruck. But the man strolling across the bridge, stopping to peer out occasionally over the handrail, to the tumbling water way below, bothers me as I motor across the structure. A mental note is made of a red pickup parked at the far edge.

In spite of a slight minister-pretation of the directions I've been given, the equipment dealer's sign soon appears. Efficient parts employees have already gathered the ordered sprockets and chains. Inside five minutes, the bill is paid, back floor of my car decorated with parts, and invoice papers top the accumulation of bulging handbag, note pad on which I have been scribbling things I must do later and one apple core.

With unexplainable relief, I note that the red truck and the strolling gentleman on the towering bridge appear to have gone on their way.

Offering a second dose of satisfaction, a short cut across the countryside toward yet a second equipment dealer comes out exactly where a distant memory said it should.

At the second equipment dealership, equally efficient parts experts have set out a bearing, and tell me that still another transplant piece has come in. While I wait for its retrieval, a computer-print poster lays a guilt trip on me with the accusation: "We were here; where was your mower?"

Remembering the several minor adjustments and repairs it took before the lawn tractor became its dependable self, apparently ours wasn't where it should have been.

With minor maneuvers, we wiggle a seven-foot mower blade into my six-foot car interior. Sheathed in protective cardboard, it slides toward me with each turn, aiming in the general direction of my neck. The gas feed gets a lighter foot going home, as I ponder if the blade's cutting or attachment edge points my way under wrapping that looks thinner with each glance. And the pile in the front seat has grown by another yellow invoice slip.

At the last moment, pleas for a new supply of udder-drying paper towels for the milking cart come to mind. I detour by the co-op warehouse.

Parts dropped off at the farm shop, the operating team begins transplanting the organs before I can even retrieve all the yellow slips.

A special blessing in this busy season upon equipment dealers who have parts ready for farm wife "go-fers" and help us get these organ transplant parts back to revive the patients. (Both machines and farmers).

If my farm wife career ever ends, maybe I could apply for a delivery job.

Finalists Named In NY Beef Cook-Off

POTSDAM, N.Y. — Participants have been named for the New York Beef Cook-Off, scheduled for June 3 at the Albany Concourse. The announcement is made by Eldora Benson of Potsdam, president of the New York Cattlewomen, sponsor of the state Cook-Off.

Mrs. Benson said participants were chosen from entries in the New York Beef Recipe Contest, which this year added an outdoor or barbecue category.

Selected to compete for the first prize in the State Cook-Off and the right to represent New York in the National Cook-Off at Sun Valley, Idaho are Yolande Blechner of Center Moriches, Long Island; Aileen Ballentine of Wawarsing in Ulster County; and Virginia Sormani of Islip Center, Long Island.

The first place winner at Albany will receive $150 plus $500 toward expenses to the National Cook-Off with its first prize of $5,000; second prize of $2,500; third prize of $1,000 and six honorable mention prizes of $300 each.

The second place New York Cook-Off winner in the indoor category will receive $125 and the third place winner, $100.

Selected to compete in the New York Beef Cook-Off Barbecue category are Regnar Carlson of Lakewood in Chautauqua County and Walla Jean Saglett of Canandaigua. The winner in this category will also receive $150 and will compete in Chicago with winners from the other states in Region I of the American National Cattlewomen's Association for the right to be one of seven finalists at Sun Valley. Those finalists will compete for a first prize of $2,500.

All of the Beef Cook-Off selections were made by a panel of judges who reviewed the beef recipes submitted in the 1987 New York Beef Recipe Contest conducted by the New York Cattlewomen. The judging was on the basis of taste, originality, ease of preparation, practicality, and appearance.

The New York Beef Cook-Off will be held at the Albany Concourse and is expected to receive much media attention. Members of the Cattlewomen will act as Cook-Off hostesses and contestant attendants.

The Cattlewomen will also host a luncheon for state legislators and officials following the Cook-Off.

Carroll Co. Farm Museum Plans Fair

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Carroll County Farm Museum in Westminster, Md., will sponsor an antique/craft fair and farm show June 7 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The museum's 140 acres will be occupied by 200 antique dealers and craftsmen as well as by farm related displays and demonstrations.

The antique dealers will sell items such as linens, quilts, dolls, pictures, depression glass, vintage clothing, furniture, wooden kitchen utensils and toys.

Craftsmen will offer handmade treasures ranging from delicate silver earrings and crystal bracelets to hand-thrown pots and stencilled wooden chests.

Machinery dealers will display farm equipment and private farm-related businesses and agricultural organizations will also have displays.

The museum grounds and buildings will be open so vistors can tour the 19th century mansion house and enjoy the museum craftsmen at work. The old-time rose and kitchen gardens will be in bloom.

A variety of country food, including deep fried chicken, pit beef, home baked pies and hand-dipped ice cream, will be sold.

For a small fee, children and young at heart can take a tractor and wagon ride.

Admission and parking are free. For more information contact the farm museum at 848-7775 or 876-2667.

Biologists Live With Wolves

WASHINGTON — L. David Mech flopped on his belly on an iceberg and whined as loud as he could, trying to attract the attention of a nearby pack of white arctic wolves.

"With my heavily insulated wind suit, face mask, and sunglasses, I'm not sure I really resembled a seal," he writes in the May National Geographic. "But one of the inquisitive wolves approached within 150 feet, and that was thrill enough for me."

Mech is a wolf biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. His regular job is studying wolves in Minnesota, where he has radio-tagged hundreds of them and observed them from the air since 1968.

Joined Wild Pack

But until last year, neither he nor anyone else he knows of had an opportunity to live with a wild pack and get a feel for the way it functions. It was "the highlight of a lifetime," Mech writes.

He and fellow Minnesotan Jim Brandenburg, a veteran wolf photographer, found the wolves on Nebraska-size Ellesmere Island, near Greenland, hundreds of miles north of Hudson Bay, more than 1,000 miles from the nearest city.

Their contacts were made easier by the wolves' relatively small fear of people, presumably because the wolves haven't been harassed by hunters. In the barren polar regions of the high Arctic, game is so scarce and conditions are so severe — darkness cloaks land and sea for almost four months of the year — that even the Inuit seldom hunt the inland areas.

During their two visits to Ellesmere, in spring and summer, Mech and Brandenburg used every means they could think of to win the wolves' acceptance. Whenever they seemed to gain a degree of it, they tried to prolong the interaction, seeking to reinforce the wolves' developing trust.

After several days and nights, the wolves began to take the men for granted. But real acceptance didn't come until the second visit, when the pack had grown so indifferent to Mech and Brandenburg that they left their pups outside their new den with no adults on guard.

Seizing the opportunity to get even closer to the wolves, the men moved their tent within a quarter mile of the den. This posed some logistical problems.

Men Barked Like Wolves

"Wolves are relentless raiders, so we had to cache all our food in a rock pile away from the tent," Mech writes. "When we were in residence at camp, we had little trouble keeping these sociable wolves at bay by simulating their doglike barking."

To ward off wolves when they were away from camp, Mech and Brandenburg built tall rock cairns near the tent and flew plastic streamers from them.

"Despite these precautions," Mech writes, "when we were away visiting the wolves at the den, their hunting parties, passing our camp, stopped off to chew the side of my backpack and strew our toilet tissue over the tundra. They urinated on our rock piles."

Once, from his lookout above the den, Mech watched four wolves attack the tent. After a few minutes of tugging and yanking, one of them pulled out his sleeping bag. It took a loud, sharp hoot from him to drive the marauders away.

Inquisitive little fuzzballs, white arctic wolf pups gambol beside their den with a yearling male. Permafrost at the wolves' home, Ellsmere Island, near Greenland, makes dens extremely difficult to dig. Old bones surrounding this cave suggest that wolves have used it for at least a century. Because of harsh conditions in the barren polar regions of the high Arctic, wolves see few hunters and therefore show slight fear of people.

Before long, the men identified all the adult pack members individually and gave them names based on their sex and appearance, such as Scruffy, Mom, Shaggy and the Lone Ranger. The pack leader was called simply the alpha male.

As time went on, Mech and Brandenberg learned a great deal about the lives of the wolves. They confirmed that there is a social order, and it is the higher-ranking animals that breed. Offspring may stay with the pack four years or longer.

The pack's routine resembles that of wolves anywhere: sleep, bouts of play and social interaction, a daily hunt by most adults, and feeding the pups whenever possible.

In play fighting, the pups test and hone their competitive skills. "Although pack functioning seems a model of cooperation, especially during the tranquil summer period, the basic selfish, aggressive spirit of every living thing lurks constantly beneath," Mech writes.

Witness Triple Killing

At no time is this more evident than when the wolves make a kill. Mech and Brandenburg had the extraordinary opportunity to witness and photograph the pack's killing of three musk-ox calves.

After the kill, Mech writes, "Frenzy fell away from the wolves, and they became intent and businesslike. No greetings. No socializing. They reminded me of firemen springing into action to put out a fire."

Within two days, not a shred of hair or bone was left at the kills. "The pack had devoured or cached some 300 pounds of prey, and much of it was already transferred to the growing wolf pups," Mech writes. "For days the pack delivered food to the pups from the caches, and the pups grew and changed noticeably."

The white arctic wolf is one of about 17 subspecies of gray wolf that remain in North America. Amid persecution and loss of habitat, the wolf, once plentiful from coast to coast and south into Mexico, has made its stand in the north woods and Arctic tundra.

Canada has some 50,000 wolves. There are 4,000 to 6,000 in Alaska, 1,200 in Minnesota, and a few elsewhere in the United States.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 3

Members of Lancaster Society 3 met May 16 at the Cloister Restaurant.

Hostess Elva Stauffer conducted devotions, reading Psalms 96:1-8. Members decided to have a food stand at the Ephrata Fair this year.

Members are asked to provide fresh fruit and baked goods for the Conestoga Food Fair on June 13. Contact Erla Gehman about contributions.

The program for the meeting was provided by NBC cameraman Marty Brumbaugh.

Lancaster Society 13

Lancaster Society 13 met May 8 at the home of Ada Bomberger. Violet Dunwoody served as co-hostess.

Following a delicious array of refreshments, president Grace Bigler called the meeting to order. Seventeen members and two guests answered roll call by giving a helpful household hint. Violet Dunwoody led devotions, reading Psalm 150. Ada Bomberger read the poem "Footprints in the Sand."

Guest speaker for the evening was Inez Long, a retired McCaskey High School teacher who has authored two books. The wife of Rev. John D. Long, she entertained the group with an informative speech entitled "Retirement is a Business."

Acting secretary Buelah Diffenbach read the secretary's report prepared by secretary Lydia Denlinger. Ethel Landis read the treasurer's report. The group approved both reports.

Six members attended the Spring Rally in Elizabethtown this week.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dolly Retallack, Friday, June 12. Ruth Schroeder and Grace Bigler will serve as co-hostesses.

Lancaster Society 8

Members of Lancaster Society 8 met May 13 at 2 p.m. in the home of Bonnie Fun. Margaret Heisey was chairman for the meeting.

Ruth Musser led the group in singing "Holy, Holy, Holy."

Ruth Eby conducted devotional time, giving springtime thoughts and reading scripture from Soloman 2 and Ecclesiastes 3.

Anna Mae Derr read the minutes and took roll call. Twenty members and one guest attended. Evelyn Dannemann gave the treasurer's report.

Mary Sarver introduced the guest speaker, Betty Geib from Manheim. Hostesses were Bunny Funk, Vera Frey and Ruth Drager.

On June 10 members will travel by car to the Halifax area for lunch. They will leave from the Mt. Joy Mennonite Church at 10:30 a.m.

Lancaster Society 14

Members of Lancaster Society 14 entertained Society 12 May 13 at the Farm and Home Center. Each member brought a salad or a dessert.

Hostesses for the event were Janet Leaman, Serena Groff, Martha Herr, Viola Hostetter, Ethel Landis, Miriam Leaman, Marian Rowe and Polly Stoltzfus.

President Esther Landis conducted a business meeting. For roll call members introduced their guests and each member told what school she attended as a first grader.

Members voted to contribute to the county dairy princess contest.

Thelma Carpenter and Esther Hollinger presented a humorous conversational duet. They talked as they rode the trolley to the Farm and Home Center.

Guest speaker Mrs. Olive Yoder discussed "A Mother's Walk Through Life." She used footware to illustrate the different stages of that walk — from booties to wedding shoes and back to booties as a grandmother.

Society 14's triple trio sang; one of their numbers — "M is for Mother" — coincided with the speaker's subject.

Each Farm Woman took home an impatiens flower as the group parted with the theme song "Brighten the Corner."

Lancaster Society 29

Lancaster Society 29 entertained members of Society 27 with a dinner-go-round May 18 at St. Mark's United Methodist Church in Mt. Joy.

All who attended enjoyed a delicious meal and fellowship.

Lancaster Society 19

Members of Lancaster Society 19 met in May at the home of Phyllis Newcomer, Wickersham Lane, Lancaster.

President Grace Landis presided over the business meeting. She told the group the 1987 county project will be equally divided between 'Make-a-Wish' and the Water Street Rescue Mission.

Mildred Lehman led devotions. Guest speaker was Ruth Kobell of Washington, D.C. Kobell represents the National Farmer's Union on legislative issues of interest to the farm family, particularly those relating to health, family and work issues of retired people.

She said, "Many retired women carry heavy responsibilities as care-givers. Social security becomes more important to women than men because as farmers' wives they did not have a pension plan."

Kobell talked about the Green Thumb training program of Pennsylvania and the Health Care System of United States. The local Office of Aging offers job opportunities for persons age 55 and over who want to keep active on a part-time basis.

The group will next meet June 13 at the Hempfield Church of the Brethren, when members will entertain Society 17.

Lancaster Society 34

Members of Lancaster Society 34 entertained members of Society 21 May 18 at the Mechanic Grove Brethren Church. Also attending were Arlene Whitman, state second vice president; Evelyn Hess, county secretary; and Vera Herr, county treasurer.

Marion Thomas of Landisville presented a wheat weaving demonstration and brought a display of her works.

During April, 13 members went on the Lancaster city walking tour and had lunch at Isaac's.

The group gave a contribution to the dairy princess program and will give an FFA senior award at this year's Solanco Awards Assembly.

Twelve members attended the Spring Rally last week.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 15. The program will be tin punching; members will pay $2 to participate. Deb Zug will be the hostess and Denise Young co-hostess.

Berks Group 5

Members of Berks Group 5 held their annual mother/daughter banquet at the Shartlesville Grange Hall May 15. Twenty-three members and their guests enjoyed a family-style turkey and ham dinner.

Following a short business meeting, Dorothy Yoh, a former home economics teacher, entertained the group with a large collection of kitchen gadgets and cookbooks. Berks County dairy princess Carol Kurtz also entertained the group.

Fourteen members of Group 5 attended the Spring Rally at Elizabethtown College May 20.

The June meeting will be held June 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mary Keeler.

Berks Group 1

Members of Berks Group 1 met recently in the home of Mrs. Pearl Levingood, Douglassville.

Thirteen members answered roll call by giving their mother's maiden name.

Following devotions, president Agnes Noll conducted the business meeting. The group gave money to the Hamburg Center to buy 30 nightgowns. Pauline Hartman auctioned off articles members brought. Money from the auction will go into the treasury.

The next meeting will be held June 10 at the home of Mrs. Ellen Snyder, Limekiln.

Berks Group 4

Members of Berks Group 4 met May 5 in the home of Ferne Kulp, R4 Boyertown. Georgeanna Fullerton was hostess. President Ferne Kulp conducted the business meeting for the 12 members present.

Some points of interest from the state board are proposed by-law changes and the state project, "Toys for Tots."

Eight members plan to attend the 35th anniversary of group 2 on June 23 in Bethel. Those attending the spring rally in Elizabethtown will leave from the home of Elsie Rothenberger at 9 a.m. May 20.

Ferne Kulp reported that volunteers gave 13,851 hours this past year to Berks Heim and the 795 residents there.

The program for the evening was a games party for Mother's Day and the exchange of plants and bulbs.

Lebanon County Group 20

Members of Lebanon Group 20 met recently at the home of May Stamm. Fourteen members and two visitors attended.

Members answered roll call by answering the question, "Where do your ancestors come from?"

Bille Hill was accepted as a new member.

The program for the evening was about international customs. Guest speaker Mable Soo Hoo explained Chinese customs and answered member's questions.

Members were reminded of the bus trip to Baltimore Harbor on June 2.

The next meeting will be held at the Cozy Cottage where members will play miniature golf.

State FFA President Sheila Biddle Dreams Big

BY SUZANNE KEENE

LITITZ — Everyone has dreams. Some people dream of great wealth, while others would settle for a quiet place in the country. But whatever the dreams, they are often the motivating force that sees ordinary folks through the day-to-day routine of everyday living.

Twenty-one-year-old Sheila Biddle considers herself a big dreamer. Her ultimate goal? To become the first woman president of the United States.

"I guess I just dream big," says the petite young woman. But behind that youthful optimisim lies a deep well of determination, confidence and talent, qualities that have helped her obtain her current position as president of Pennsylvania's Future Farmers of America. As state FFA president, she is busy promoting agriculture, encouraging her peers, and helping guide the organization's future.

She took over the job last June after being elected to the position during the summer FFA convention at Penn State University. Nineteen candidates were competing for the 11 state officer positions. All were to come to the event with a prepared acceptance speech, just in case they were elected to the top position.

Following intensive interviews with the nominating committee early in the week, Sheila recalls waiting until the early hours of the day the names of the new officers would be announced before preparing her speech. "I thought I'd better write an acceptance speech — just in case," she notes.

Later that day, she had an opportunity to put that speech to the test as the new president greeted her peers. Since that day, she and her fellow state officers have been encouraging FFA'ers across the state to "Reach for Golden Opportunities."

Those opportunities are many and diverse, Sheila points out. Although declining enrollment in vocational agriculture programs has been a problem in the past few years, Sheila believes that situation will turn around once teens and school administrators learn that FFA and vo-ag aren't just for students interested in becoming farmers.

The program has changed along with agriculture and offers a host of opportunities for students who are planning careers in agri-business, agri-marketing, or agri-science.

When she visits schools to meet with FFA'ers, Sheila says she likes to talk to the school's administrators as well, encouraging them to support vo-ag in their schools.

Traveling to schools, speaking at numerous banquets, and attending countless meetings make for a grueling schedule. Sheila took a year off from her agri-business management studies at Penn State University to devote her full attention to her new job.

As her term as president nears its end, Sheila feels no regret at her decision. When she applied for the position, she said, "I wanted to give back to FFA what it had given to me."

During her four years of vo-ag at Williamsburg High School in Blair County, Sheila participated in numerous activites. Unlike many students, she opted to take vo-ag as an independent study course in addition to a full load of academics.

The awards she earned in those four years is a tribute to her talent and perseverance. She was star chapter farmer, vice-president and secretary of her chapter and traveled to Europe on an ag youth exchange program.

But perhaps the most helpful — and most difficult — accomplishment was participating in public speaking contests. As a freshman, Sheila recalls, she was afraid of speaking before a group. But with her advisor's encouragement, she decided to give public speaking a try; for two years she participated in state-level speaking contests.

Sheila Biddle has had a busy year promoting vocational agriculture as state FFA president.

Those speaking skills were helpful to her as the 1985 Blair County Dairy Princess and today as FFA president.

The success of her peers has been at the forefront of Sheila's efforts as FFA president. Looking back on her term, she says her greatest accomplishment was reaching fellow FFA'ers and informing them of opportunities available through the program.

"You can see how successful you've been by the looks on other's faces," she says. To know that another student has entered a contest or pursued an opportunity because of her encouragement is Sheila's reward for her effort. When a student came up to her and thanked her for her words, "that just felt really great because we'd accomplished something," she said.

Improving state FFA programs was another of the officer team's goals and one that Sheila believes they met. One of their greatest accomplishments, she said, was planning a Legislative Leadership Conference that will allow FFA'ers to visit the capital and to learn about state government. An added benefit of the program, she notes, is that legislators will be more aware of the FFA program.

When her term as president ends next month, Sheila will begin an internship at the Agway store in Pleasant Gap. In the fall, she will return to Penn State University to complete her last two years of college study.

Should she find a spare moment, she'll probably stop in to visit the home farm in Williamsburg, where her parents, J. Edward and LaDonna, operate a Holstein dairy farm.

Fleece Show, Sale Scheduled For Lamb And Wool Festival

STATE COLLEGE — With spring shearing well under way and pools soon to start, now is the time to select prize fleeces, both white and natural colored, to compete for more than $380 this July.

The 3rd Annual Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Festival will feature a Fleece Show and Sale, July 10 to 11 at the Ag Arena in State College. Two divisions are available for white fleeces and natural colored fleeces.

Four classes of competition in each division include: Fine (Merino, Rambouillet & crosses, counts 60 & up); Medium breeds (producing wool from 48's to 58's); Long (including Romney, Leicester, Lincoln and crosses 47 and below); and Coarse or Carpet (including Karakul, Scottish Blackface, etc.).

More than $380 in premiums and prizes will be offered. First place fleece in each class receives $20, second place $15 and third place $10. Division champions receive an additional $10.

Fleeces must be from the current wool crop (1986-87) and represent no more than 12 months growth. Each fleece must be clean, dry and free of tags, burrs, forage and second cuts. Fleeces must be skirted and tied with paper twine.

Judges will grade fleeces prior to judging. Fleeces will be judged and if for sale, priced according to the hand spinner market.

Entry deadline for entering fleeces into competition is June 15. For more information or entry forms contact Marna Mackay, Fleece Show Coordinator, R.D. #1, Box 531, Boyertown, PA 19512, or call (215) 367-6867

Saddle Cinches 4-H Club Gives Widow's Barn A Fresh Coat Of Paint

MANHEIM — With paint brushes, buckets, and ladders, the Saddle Cinches 4-H Horse and Pony Club of the Manheim, Mount Joy, and Elizabethtown area, gathered at the Mrs. John Roland farm on Saturday, May 16. The purpose of their trip — to paint the barn.

Painting the 3300-square-feet Roland barn was a project that was undertaken by the club "because it was there and needed to be done," said club leader Kendy Allen.

"I guess you could say this project really started last year when I received information about the Colgate Community Service Program in the mail," she continued. "They listed so many different ideas that groups had done, it really intrigued me. I thought, if other clubs could do it, so could we. There had to be a project out there just waiting for our club to come and do it."

The idea just happened to be a barn that many club members passed by almost daily. One corner of it stood painted, one of the many projects the late John Roland tackled before his untimely death.

Since then the barn has stood as mute evidence of a job unfinished. And though Mrs. John Roland has taken over running the farm, painting the barn was a job that just didn't get done.

That's when the Saddle Cinches 4-H stepped in. Firs step was to find the paint, and J. B. Hostetter and Sons, Mount Joy, came through, donating some paint and cutting the price on the the remaining supply needed for the job.

"We needed 50 gallons to make sure we could complete the job," noted Mick Buller, club parent in charge of the project. "Hostetter's came through really giving the club a break on expenses."

Next was the gathering of the people. The date of May 16 was established and members (ranging in age from 8 to 18), parents, relatives, and former members all gathered at the Roland farm to paint from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Then the real work began. With sprayers, paint brushes, ladders, and hard work, the barn started to take on a new life. By midafternoon, after many cases of sunburn, blisters and spilled paint, a glistening coat of brown stain covered the large structure.

"It was a job worth doing," one member could be heard saying as he started to clean his brush. "It makes you feel good to look at that barn."

Hunterdon Dairymen Seek Princess Candidates

PITTSTOWN, N.J. — The annual search is on for candidates for the title of Hunterdon County Dairy Princess, says Marie Schwab, East Amwell, a co-chairman of the local planning committee. To be eligible, candidates must be between 17 and 25 years of age, single, and have some knowledge of the dairy industry.

The contest will precede the annual Dairy Farm Open House, scheduled this year for Father's Day, June 21, at Mark and Wendy Douglass' farm in Pittstown. The winner will be announced during the open house activities.

The dairy princess attends and participates in a number of milk and milk product promotions during her reign, including exhibits at shopping malls, appearaces at service clubs and other meetings, school assemblies and the fair.

Anyone interested in entering the contest should contact Mrs. Schwab at 782-7317 or Sandy Rogers, co-chairman, at 788-1984.

Cheryl Taylor Selected 1987 Bradford County Dairy Princess

Cheryl Taylor will wear the Bradford County Dairy Princess crown for 1987-88.

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

TOWANDA – Although one inch short of the proverbial five feet two, she has eyes of blue and she is Bradford County's new dairy princess. Petite blonde Cheryl Taylor, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, R1 Rome, garnered the judges' votes in Bradford County's dairy princess pageant Saturday night at the Towanda Middle School.

Wearing a pale blue floor length gown, Miss Taylor was chosen from a field of three contestants. Two hundred people attended the event.

Bonnie Duffield, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Duffield of R1 Wyalusing, was elected first alternate. Michele Hollenback, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hollenback of R3 Towanda, was chosen second alternate.

Miss Taylor, who said she was "stunned, but happy" to be the new dairy princess, is a junior at Northeast Bradford High School with plans to major in pre-med at Penn State after graduation. Miss Taylor says she helps around her parents' 220-acre dairy farm where needed, but often functions as a "gopher." The Taylors are currently milking 50 of their 95-cow dairy herd.

Naming qualities she possesses that will make her an effective dairy princess, Miss Taylor says, "I love to be around people and would like to educate them about milk so they know how good it is for them."

Dressed in blue jeans and a straw hat, Miss Taylor sang and accompanied herself on the piano as part of her dairy skit. She sang a commercial she had written which extolled the virtues of drinking milk.

The interests of the new princess include playing the piano, swimming, hiking, cooking and baking. Very much musically inclined, she is a church pianist, accompanist for senior high chorus, organist for graduation ceremonies for the past two years, and vacation Bible school music director.

In her dairy presentation Bonnie Duffield, first alternate, costumed as a cow, sang lyrics she had composed about the good qualities of milk to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw." Miss Duffield is a junior at Wyalusing High School with plans to major in pre-med after high school graduation. The Duffields have a 296-acre dairy farm near Camptown and are presently milking 54 black and white and red and white Holsteins.

Michele Hollenback, second alternate, presented her view of the value of milk through the eyes of a little girl while pedaling a small tractor on stage. A junior at Troy Area High School, Michele plans to become an X-ray technician after high school. The Hollenbacks have a herd of 100

Marvelous Marinades

A zesty marinade can turn ordinary cuts of meat and dull unappetizing vegetable dishes into mouth-watering masterpieces. Great tasting, ready-to-use dressings and sauces make marvelous instant marinades. They do double-duty tenderizing as they add distinctive flavor.

Commercial dressings and sauces contain food acids such as vinegar, and lemon juice which soften meat fibers and connective tissue. They are especially good for tougher, less expensive cuts of beef. The oil in dressings helps give the impression of tenderness. During cooking, the oil is distributed among meat fibers, adding flavor and slowing the evaporation of moisture.

More tender, succulent cuts of meat — tenderloin, lamb chops, and porterhouse steaks — should not be placed in a marinade for long periods of time. Just brush with your favorite marinade during cooking to add subtle flavor. Chicken, pork, fish and game also are delicious marinade partners.

Raw, crisp-tender or canned vegetables marinated an hour or two will spark up any meal. Flavor choices are abundant — from the traditional favorites such as thousand island, French and Italian, to the newer ones like green goddess, creamy cucumber, buttermilk, and garlic and herbs.

Any pourable dressing works as a marinade so try them all! Be creative and vary the taste ever more by adding Worcestershire sauce, soy sauce, mustard, a little wine, fresh herbs, spices, or some other personal touch. But take care not to over dilute the vinegar or lemon juice in the dressing, if you want to tenderize as well.

Marinating Tips

Allow about ½ cup of marinade for each pound of food.

Average marinating time for meat is three hours or overnight in the refrigerator. Cubed meats for kabobs usually require 2 to 3 hours.

Remember that marinades flavor or tenderize only the outside ¼ inch of each piece.

Marinating 12 hours or more reduces cooking time by one-third.

Zip seal bags are great containers for marinating. No clean-up is necessary.

Try the following recipes to get yourself started!

Marinated Salad Bowl

⅓ cup red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon water
1 package (.75 ounce) dry dressing mix
1 (1 pound) bunch fresh broccoli
8 medium fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 medium zucchini, thinly sliced
1 4-ounce jar diced pimiento, drained
1 to 2 tablespoons minced onion

Trim off large leaves of broccoli. Wash broccoli and break off flowerets; reserve stalks for another use.

Combine broccoli flowerets and remaining vegetables in a large bowl. Pour dressing over vegetables; toss gently. Cover and refrigerate four hours. Serves eight.

Creole Barbecue Shrimp

1 pound medium raw shrimp, peeled & deveined
½ cup barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
1 bay leaf
1/8 teaspoon cayenne
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Combine barbecue sauce, lemon juice, garlic, bay leaf and cayenne. Pour over shrimp and coat evenly. Cover and marinate 2 hours.

Cook shrimp on fine wire grill over hot coals about 6 to 8 minutes or until done, turning once and brushing often with marinade. Do not overcook. Heat remaining marinade on edge of grill and serve with the shrimp. Serves two.

Little Lions FFA

The State College Little Lions FFA Chapter elected officers during their May 14 meeting.

The following officers will serve a one-year term: Gary Dreibelbis, president; Barbara Witherite, vice president; Nichole Eckenroth, secretary; Dustin Brown, treasurer; Ken Sharer, reporter; Mark Brownley, sentinel; Danielle Jones, parliamentarian; and John Diebler, chaplain.

Elections were followed by refreshments and basketball and volleyball games with the Penns Valley and Bellefonte chapters.

State College FFA has a total of 80 members with 60 in regular ag in school and 20 ag graduate members. The chapter is advised by David Seamens.

Bradford County Dairy Princess

Holsteins of which 55 are currently milking on their 420-acre farm.

In her farewell speech, outgoing princess, Yonna Taylor commented that during her reign as dairy princess she was getting spoiled, but, "I love it." She had learned many things, she noted, including to be herself and not to worry about what other people think. She thanked the people on the dairy promotion committee and her parents for their support, and "most of all, the people of Bradford County for making this one of the most memorable years of all."

The winner of the 1987 Bradford County dairy princess pageant received a $100 savings bond from the North Orwell Eastern Milk Producers local; $50 savings bond courtesy of the Wysox Eastern Milk Producers local; $50 savings bond from the Towanda Chamber of Commerce; and a gift certificate for $25 from Fairchild's Gifts, Towanda. The retiring dairy princess received $100 from the dairy promotion committee.

Gary Green served as master of ceremonies for the event. Dairy Princess coordinator was Anita Wrisley; pageant co-chairpersons were Terri Madigan and Bonnie Borek. Judges were Sheila Biddle, Williamsburg, Pa.; Harold Ely, Montrose, Pa.; and Victor Cappucci, Jr., Tunkhannock, Pa. Toe-tapping entertainment was presented by the Swing Choir of Wyalusing.

Winners Listed In Mid-State FFA Contests

BY MARY MAXWELL
Centre County Correspondent

SPRING MILLS — High school students from three central Pennsylvania counties recently competed in that area's Regional FFA Contests. Penns Valley chapter, under the direction of advisor John Ishler, hosted the events. Participants came from chapters in Sugar Valley, Curwensville, Clearfield, Bellefonte, State College and Penns Valley schools.

The winners will compete with other state-wide competitors on the Penn State campus during FFA Activities Week, June 16-18.

Todd Woomer, Bellefonte FFA member, concentrates on backing up during the regional contests held recently at Penns Valley High School in Centre County.

Butler Co. Vo-Tech FFA Presents Awards To Members

BUTLER — The Butler County Area Vocational-Technical FFA Chapter recently held their annual parent-member banquet at the Horn of Plenty Restaurant. The main item of business for the evening was the presentation of awards earned throughout the year by the members.

Retired agriculture teacher John Graham presented the FFA Foundation awards. Tim Carr received the Poultry Production and Floriculture awards. Farm and Home Improvement plus Wildlife Management awards were presented to Eric Dumbaugh.

Eric Weber was selected for the Forestry Award. Eddie Zedreck captured the honors in Agricultural Processing and Feed Grain Production. Specialty Animal Production and Public Speaking awards went to Bonnie Pearce. Lona Rader won the Dairy Production award. Frank Maihle received both the Agricultural Mechanics and Beef Production awards.

Three seniors were recognized for outstanding work with their projects for 1986. Eddie Zedreck won a gold medal for his work on the farm project, while Eric Dumbaugh received a silver medal in the same project category. For his farm and home improvement project, Eric Weber received a silver medal.

Results of the Mid-Western Roundup Contests were given to the members. Bonnie Pearce won first place in the creed contest and interview contest as well as eighth place in the forestry contest. Other winners included: Eddie Zedreck, fifth in Tractor Handling; Lona Rader, eighth in Dairy Cattle Judging; Eric Dumbaugh, 10th in Wildlife and Eric Pawlowicz, 13th in Dairy Foods. Lona Rader and Eric Dumbaugh will represent the Chapter in their respective contests June 16 to 18 at Penn State University.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer by Carl Shuler, Jr. Bonnie Pearce, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearce of Renfrew, was selected by her fellow members as Star Greenhand. Star Chapter Farmer went to Tim Carr, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Carr of Renfrew.

A film discussing the advantages of FFA and vocational agriculture was shown as entertainment following the awards presentations.

Lehigh Co. 4-H Announces Winner

ALLENTOWN — Michelle Reynard, Route 2 Breinigsville, was selected as Lehigh County's 4-H scholarship winner. She will be receiving $500 toward the school of her choice.

This is the first year of the scholarship which was established in honor of Mildred S. Bleiler, recognizing her 35 years of volunteer service to the Lehigh County 4-H Program.

Michelle Reynard has been a 4-H member for nine years in the Fogelsville 4-H Cleverettes. She has taken child care, leadership, ceramics, foods and needlework projects. Michelle has held the offices of president, vice president, game leader and roving officer in her 4-H club. She has also served on various committees and competed at the state level on the foodarama team. Michelle has also been a 4-H camp counselor for three years.

Michelle plans to study psychology at Kutztown University this fall. Eventually she hopes to be a school psychologist. She has been a member of the Parkland Leo Club for three years, the Silk Squad for two years and the National Honor Society this past year. Michelle will graduate from Parkland High School this June.

Bronco Buster.

A tank mix of new Gramoxone Super and Dual works faster, works longer and works for less.

You can beat expensive premixes like Bronco with your own tank mix for no-till double-crop soybeans: GRAMOXONE® SUPER and Dual® herbicides.

Bronco starts slowly, resulting in weeks of unnecessary moisture loss. The tank-mix of GRAMOXONE SUPER and Dual kills emerged weeds fast. It keeps on working, giving you two to four more weeks of residual activity than Bronco.

Willing to pay more for the convenience of a pre-mix? Look at the flexibility and convenience of GRAMOXONE SUPER and Dual. It's rainfast in 30 minutes. And GRAMOXONE SUPER and Dual mix well with each other and with residual broadleaf herbicides like Sencor, Lexone and Lorox.

Break the Bronco habit. Ask us about tank-mixing paraquat at its best—new GRAMOXONE SUPER—with longer lasting Dual.

Free Feed Test - Free Tape
Two Bags or More Better Price

Ag-Bag Compacts more feed per ton than others. Do not be misled, others claim to have a bag of equal quality. Our bag formulation has yet to be duplicated. Ag-Bag Corporation closely monitors the manufacturing process and specially prepared resin formulas necessary in producing lasting and durable Ag-Bags. Competitive bags show that nitrogenous gases have escaped from other bags leaving it a yellow color. Proving they do not have airtight feed storage bag to give you true sealed storage, like the Ag-Bag bags offer.

Eby trailers or truck bodies can haul anything you want — even Brahman bulls

Eby Gives You Choices

You can haul livestock in a trailer hooked to your pickup. Or on the other hand, you may prefer a truck and livestock body for its maneuverability

Perhaps you need to haul dairy cattle. Or calves. Hogs. Sheep Horses. Even a Brahman Bull.

You decide what you want. Then practically design your own Eby trailer or livestock body before it's custom made. Choose length, width and height. Select from a variety of partitions and doors. Even decide whether or not to have a tool box. In short, our versatility lets you own just what you want

But you don't have to make all the choices

Every Eby livestock body and trailer is aluminum. No matter what options you choose, your trailer or body will never rust or need paint. It's as much as 35% lighter than steel and wood construction for increased load capacity and better fuel economy And heavy-duty standard components ensure safe, trouble-free hauling for years to come.

Now all these choices can be yours for probably a lot less than you expect In fact, when you figure in the durability and low maintenance, an Eby all-aluminum livestock body or trailer is a fantastic value. So give us a call, or write, for more information and the name of the dealer nearest you

ELK RUN TRACTORS

We Start More Tractors Than John Deere, Kubota And Ford Put Together.

To keep farms running like well-oiled machines, farmers need well-oiled machinery. And, from time to time, that means new machinery.

Farm Credit can help you with a special equipment loan. For a tractor or combine. A baler, harvester or loader. Even a new pick-up truck.

Right now, our rates are as competitive as ever. And our terms won't remind you of a tractor pull.

Farm Credit has been helping farmers start their farms, and keep them running, for 70 years. With loans for land, houses, seed and fertilizer, as well as new equipment.

There's a good reason why we want farmers to prosper. It's because we're farmers, too. Farm Credit is owned and controlled by the same farmers who use its services.

Which probably explains why we've started more John Deeres, Kubotas and Fords than anyone else in the field.

Kempton Fair Scheduled

KEMPTON – The Kempton Country Fair, with up-beat country music keynoting the mood of the weekend event, will be held at the Kempton Community Center Friday through Sunday, June 19 to 21.

Headline acts in this 33rd annual event include Pake McEntire and The Country Express on Friday evening; Saturday, Jimmy C. Newman, Tecia, and Sherry Schafer and the Blue Mountain Ramblers; Sunday, Billy Walker who returns for the 11th season and Mike Lee and the Renegades.

Other events include tractor pulls, the 21st annual baking contest open to men, women and children, the Es Lieblichst Maedel contest which culminates Sunday evening at the coronation of the "fairest one," a midway, rides and homemade foods. Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. reduced rates on amusement rides will be available to children 14 and under.

The Kempton Community Center is located on Rt. 143 five miles north of Rt. 22 from the Lenhartsville Interchange or from 737, the Kutztown Interchange.

Erie To Host Vegetable Growers Field Tour

NORTHUMBERLAND — The 1987 Pennsylvania Vegetable Field Tour will be held July 27 and 28 in the Erie area. The annual tour is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association and the Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension Service. It will include visits to six vegetable operations in the vicinity. Registration is open to all interested persons.

Plans are being made to charter a bus from the eastern portion of the state. The bus will pick up growers as it travels across the state on Sunday, July 26. An optional greenhouse tour or Erie skyline and bay cruise may be planned for Sunday evening.

Registration for the main tour will open at 8 AM Monday morning. The tour will begin at the Glenn Troyer Farms in Waterford. Troyers have large acreages of potatoes and strawberries as well as grain crops. The second stop will be the Robert Brace farm, also in Waterford. Brace's main crops are cabbage and small grains. A cabbage variety trial and other demonstrations will be featured at the Brace farm.

After the noon meal, the tour will move to Lake City to visit the John Mason farm and the Paul Goodwin farm. Mason is the current president of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association. He grows a wide variety of vegetables for retail sales at his roadside market and several farmer's markets. Mason also wholesales some produce at the Pittsburgh and Cleveland terminal markets. A sweet corn variety trial is planted at the Mason farm. The Goodwins also grow a variety of vegetables for local retail sales and for wholesale in Cleveland and Pittsburgh. They machine harvest their 40 acres of sweet corn.

The tour will return to the Mason farm for an evening barbecue. The Board of Directors will also meet Monday evening.

Tuesday morning the tour will visit the John Ziesenhiem farm, also at Lake City. Mr. Ziesenhiem's main vegetable crops are processing tomatoes and cabbage. He also has a newly established peach orchard equipped with drip irrigation. The tour will also stop at an additional vegetable operation before concluding at noon on Tuesday.

For additional information on the Tour, contact William Troxell, executive secretary, Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, R.D. #1 Box 392, Northumberland, PA 17857. Phone 717-473-8468.

TV Program Aimed At Woodlot Owners

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — "Great American Woodlots," a 13-part television documentary series aimed at private woodlot owners, will begin airing June 6 at 8 a.m. on Maryland Public Broadcasting. It will continue for 12 more Saturdays at the same time on channels 22 (Annapolis), 28 (Salisbury), 31 (Hagerstown), 36 (Oakland), 62 (Frederick) and 67 (Baltimore).

The show seeks to create public awareness of good forestry practices in an age of increased environmental concern. It will include segments on wildlife in woodlots, improved tree growth, mapping of timber stands, diseases common to woodlot trees, and urban forestry.

The documentary was created as a joint venture of Maine Public Broadcasting and the University of Maine's Cooperative Extension Service. Its showing in Maryland has received financial support from the Maryland Extension Service.

Begin Scouting Now For Corn Borer Damage

First-generation European corn borers are beginning to make their move on earliest planted corn fields across the mid-Atlantic region. Checking fields closely now can help minimize stalk breakage and harvesting difficulties come fall.

According to Dennis Calvin, Extension entomologist at Penn State University, corn growers should begin watching their fields for feeding damage and live larvae soon. Because corn borers are migratory, absence of damage in one season should not preclude scouting the next.

"Corn borers can show up literally anywhere," he says. "Borers overwinter in stalks and residue. First-generation moths begin searching for egg-laying sites in late May or early June. Corn borer moths migrate widely, therefore field insect history and tillage patterns cannot be used to predict the odds for infestation and damage. Soil-applied insecticides do not control corn borer populations, either, so growers should scout even if a product was applied at planting time.

The Invisible Pest

Over the years, damage from European corn borers has gone relatively unnoticed as farmers have focused on soil pests which feed on corn seedlings and roots. Tom Griffie, Agway representative in Carlisle, reports that foliar pests, such as the European corn borer, pose a significant economic threat in his territory.

"Farmers have done a good job of scouting their fields and mapping strategies to deal with rootworms and cutworms," he says. "We believe corn borers, although still somewhat of an 'invisible' pest, are gaining recognition."

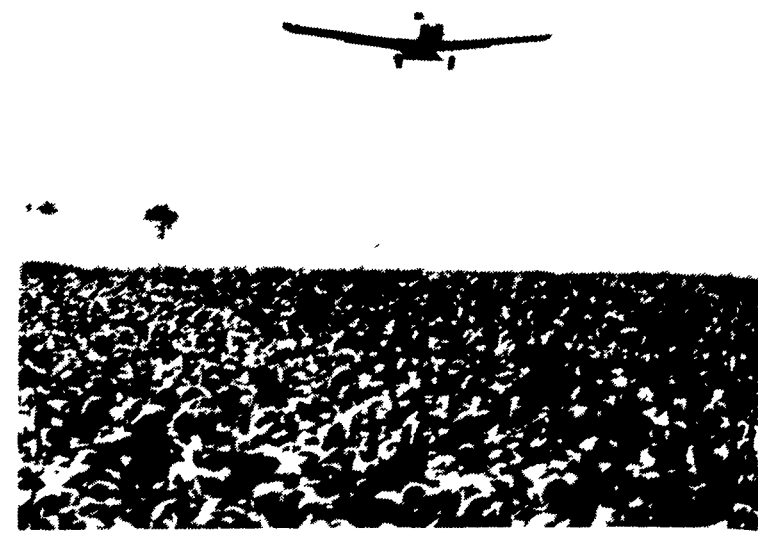
Scouting Tips

Corn borers inflict damage by burrowing deep within the plant and disrupting normal growth. To catch these pests "red-handed," scouts should sample all sections of a field, unrolling the whorl leaves and looking for "shot-hole" damage. If feeding is noticed, Calvin at Penn State advises growers to look further for live larvae.

"Check 10 consecutive plants in 10 areas of the field for shot-hole damage," he says, "Examine the plants carefully looking for shot-hole or edge feeding. This results when tissue is removed from leaves emerging out of the whorl."

Whorl Application Critical

There are a number of insecticide formulations and application options for treating first-generation corn borer larvae. Regardless of application style, insecticide must be forced down into the whorl of the plant to reach corn borer larvae. For that reason, Griffie with Agway prefers granular insecticide applications.



Aerial application of granular insecticide is a popular and effective means of attaining first-generation European corn borer control. Granular insecticides are preferred because they roll into the corn whorl where corn borer larvae feed.

Conference To Focus On New Uses For Corn

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — U.S. farmers have worked hard to make corn the nation's top crop in both acres planted and bushels harvested. Now they're having to work hard to keep their commodity profitable.

That's why the 15,000 farmer members of the National Corn Growers Association are co-sponsoring with Funk Seeds International the first ever National Corn Utilization Conference in St. Louis, Mo. on June 11 and 12.

The golden grain's traditional role as a livestock feed has diminished recently at home and abroad. Unused stocks of corn now total over five billion bushels, more than 60 percent of the 1986 U.S. crop. Pressured by this surplus, prices have declined.

NCGA's Domestic Market Development Committee has combatted this downtrend over the past several years by expanding corn's identity. "In the 1970's worldwide economic and political events conspired to make it profitable to produce corn for virtually a single market—livestock feed. Those circumstances may never recur," says Steve Wentworth, a corn farmer from Oreana, IL, and NCGA chairman of the domestic market development committee. "We can't wait around on the assumption that they will. We must act to diversify our markets so that in the future if one sector fo the economy lags, we don't go down with it."

Over the past several years, NCGA's volunteer farmer leaders have formulated policies which have successfully promoted corn as both an industrial feedstock for ethanol, and a human foodstuff for high fructose corn sweetener (HFCS).

Fuel ethanol, an alcohol distilled from corn, continues to gain acceptance as an octane enhancer in gasoline in spite of tough opposition from the petroleum industry. Efforts on the national level by NCGA and its 19 affiliated state associations have enhanced ethanol's reputation as an environmentally clean, cost-effective and renewable national resource.

This corn by-product is not only helping the U.S. meet federal clean air standards, but is reducing both our trade deficit and a strategically dangerous dependence on foreign oil cartels.

As a result, U.S. ethanol producers now consume over 300 million bushels of corn annually, compared to only four million in 1978. The NCGA goal is to expand usage to one billion bushels by 1990.

Corn sweeteners now claim virtually the entire U.S. soft drink market and account for more than half the caloric sweeteners consumed by Americans. NCGA has supported the research and policies which have made this once minor market a 530 million bushel a year consumer of corn.

"We can easily fill the livestock, ethanol and sweetener needs of this country and still have plenty of productive capacity left over," says Harold Cutler, NCGA president from Greenville, NC. "It makes no sense to idle the most efficient farmers and most productive land in the world at taxpayer expense. No corn farmer wants to produce a crop whose ultimate home is a government warehouse. Instead of being a drain on the economy, we choose to pioneer new, unimagined uses to maximize corn's potential contribution to the entire national economy."

That's why last year NCGA and Funk Seeds International launched a National Corn Utilization Project (NCUP). The NCUP's Blue Ribbon Panel of experts from industry, farm and government identified broad industrial areas in which corn can best be marketed as a raw material.

This year's follow-up National Corn Utilization Conference will further focus that search on three subject areas: ethanol, materials and biodegradables and chemical feedstocks. National research authorities will address each topic, exploring the technical and economic viability of new uses of corn.

Delaware Field Day Scheduled

NEWARK, Del. — After experimenting with a different name and date last year, the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences has decided to return to the traditional name and date for its annual Georgetown field day. In accordance with this decision, "Farm and Home Field Day" will be held on August 12 (the second Wednesday of the month) at the university's Research and Education Center, which is located on Route 9 just a few miles west of Georgetown.

The half-day event will begin at 8:30 a.m. and feature tours and programs of special interest to grain, vegetable, poultry and pork producers as well as consumers and home gardeners.

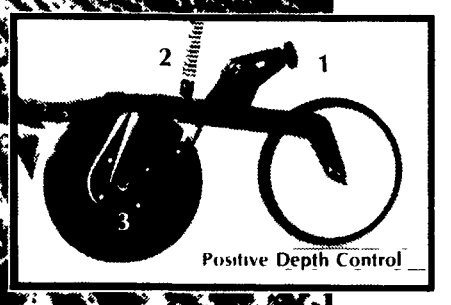
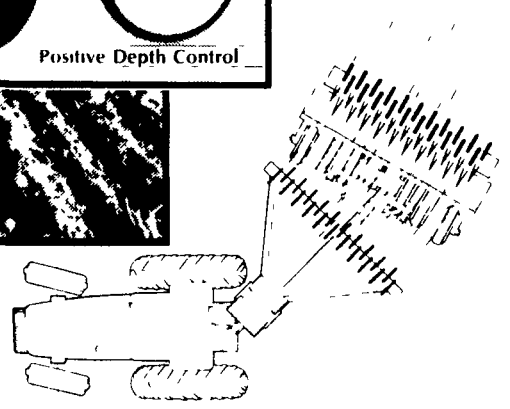
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS



Great Plains Solid Stand® drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need;
(1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system. (2) Double Down-Pressure Springs hold opener firmly in the soil — preventing the bouncing action which leaves seed scattered on top of the ground.

(3) Special Seed Chute places seed in the very bottom of the v-slot, rather than allowing slot to partially close prior to seed release.



THE NO-TILL HITCH THAT WORKS

Here's why:
A unique pivot between the coulter unit and the drill allows each disk opener to track exactly in the slot cut by the coulter in front — even while the unit is rounding a curve.

Excellent penetration is also achieved, thanks to a heavy-duty framework, calcium-fillable transport tires, and a special weight transfer design which applies some of the weight of the drill itself to the coulters. Should additional weight be needed, specially designed weight brackets are available which accept most tractor suitcase-style weights. In all, up to 400 lbs. of weight per coulter is possible — ensuring penetration even in the toughest ground.

Finally, all Combination Drill Hitches feature a quick hitch for attaching easily to 3-point drills. So you have the flexibility to no-till some acreage, then switch back to a conventional seeding method as conditions vary.

COMPARE PERFORMANCE! COMPARE PRICE!
YOU'LL BUY A Great Plains NO-TILL DRILL

Case IH Axial-Flow Combines

SIMPLY MORE PRODUCTIVE IN THE FIELD

Over the past nine years the Case IH axial-flow combines have proven themselves to be more productive than the combines previously owned by our customers. In tall crops, short crops or down crops; bumper crops or drought crops the axial-flow combines put more crop in the bin and, therefore, return more market dollars to you. The Case IH axial-flow is simply more productive in the field where the bragging stops.

HOOBER: Axial-Flow production specialists

1. Every new combine Hoober sells is expertly predelivered and started in the field by a professional combine mechanic; experienced in setting and adjusting for all common crops.
2. Hoober's professional combine mechanics drive fully equipped combine service trucks, stocked with commonly used wearing parts. When called to service or repair an axial-flow combine, they carry with them the tools and equipment to do the job and get you back to the field fast.
3. Hoober's Parts Department has the largest combine parts inventory in the East. Daily pick-ups at the Case IH Parts depot help to provide fast emergency parts availability. Hoober's expert combine PARTS service provides you minimum downtime and maximum productivity.

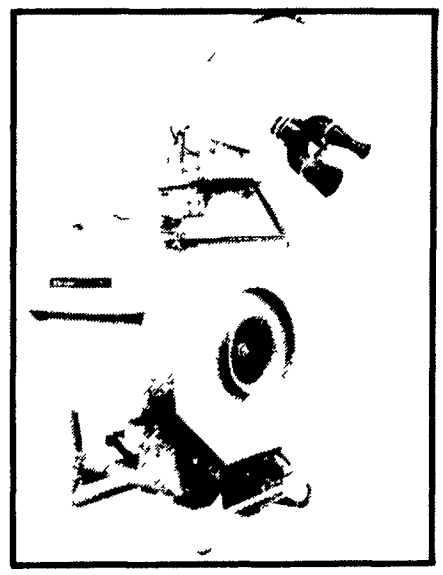
MODEL C-400 "CANNON"

Versatile Sprayer For Many Different Applications Of Insecticides And Fungicides!



Aerodynamic Design Of The "Cannon" Head Delivers

MORE AIR!

39" fan produces 280 MPH air speed. Allows you to cover 100-130 feet which means fewer trips thru the fields, fewer drive roads and more crop per acre. This design gives a well-defined, easily controlled mist, yet small cannon covers crop close to tractor.

MORE PENETRATION!

High air velocity produces a finer mist which penetrates short dense growth or tall crops such as sweet corn. Also allows smaller volumes of water with excellent coverage and fewer trips to the water tank.

5 MODELS IN STOCK...

Ready To Meet Your Spring Spraying Needs!!

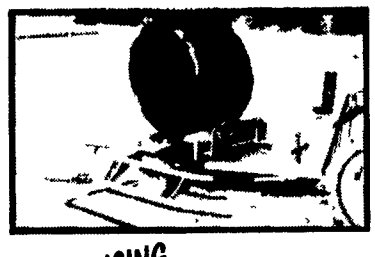
Find Out Why The Wrapper Is Better Than Hay Bags.
SilaWrap System... New For 1987



- The lift-arm places the bale on the turn table.
- Silawrap film is then attached to one of the bale strings
- As the turn table is rotating, the rollers will slowly turn the bale.
- The Silawrap film is stretched around the bale overlapping 2-3-4 or 5 times according to the setting of the gears
- The film is cut, film end secured and bale tipped off

Solid Ways To Improve Your Farm

Consider The Many Advantages Of Concrete

CONVENTIONAL SILOS

Since forage quality is so important to today's dairy farmers, it is very important to consider factors that might improve that quality.

Many farmers are finding that an upright silo is a good investment because of increased feed value of haylage. Samples of wilted hay from University forage analysis programs are running about 4 percentage points higher in crude protein than the average hay sample.

Are you having trouble making hay in this damp rainy weather? Think about your 2nd cutting. Maybe we will still have time to get a silo erected so that you can store your feed properly & with less loss due to weather.

There is no better upright silo than a poured Sollenberger Silo! The strong, smooth walls reflect heat so that your forage protein doesn't suffer from heat damage.

You will appreciate the quality of a Sollenberger Silo, and "your cows will just love you" because of the high quality feed.

A Sollenberger Silo keeps feed good, and unloads easily, at the 50%-58% moisture level.

MASTER MIX

SILO-BOOSTER

Why should you use Master Mix SILO-BOOSTER instead of another product? SILO-BOOSTER has been proven in 20 years of on-farm use, as well as in continuous university research. With each new discovery in silage science, we have improved the original formula. Today's SILO-BOOSTER gives the most effective silage innoculant yet developed.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Alfalfa Ensiled With And Without SILO-BOOSTER Conducted
At The University Of Minnesota West Central Experiment Station
Morris, Minnesota — Summary Of Haylage Crops

DRY MATTER RECOVERY (1)	CONTROL	SILO-BOOSTER
Amount D.M. Ensiled, lb.	26,228	30,418
Amount D.M. Removed, lb.	24,432	30,278
Recovery %	93.2	99.5

(1) Individual loads of fresh forage were weighed before ensiling; after storage, silos were emptied completely at one time.

Composition and pH of Stored Alfalfa Ensiled With and Without SILO BOOSTER.

	CONTROL	SILO-BOOSTER
Dry Matter, %	50.66	54.98
pH	6.33	5.82
Crude Protein, %	23.64	23.45
Ammonia Nitrogen	19.76	14.80
ADIN-N. % of total N	5.76	5.58
ADF, % of D.M.	31.74	30.23
NFD, % of D.M.	42.44	41.88
Lactic Acid, % of D.M.	1.00	.87
Acetic Acid, % of D.M.	.72	.52
Propionic Acid, % of D.M.	.018	.007
Butyric Acid, % of D.M.	.119	.027

Dry matter recovery data from these conventional silos demonstrates a 6.3% difference in feedable alfalfa silage. For each 100 tons of silage, there would be an additional 6.3 tons of silage available for feeding. This is equivalent to 3.5 tons of 90% dry matter hay worth approximately $350.00. This is a $3.50 return for each $1.00 investment in SILO BOOSTER from a reduction in fermentation losses alone.

Master Mix® CENTRAL SOYA

APPLICATION: 1 Lb. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of Forage.
SILO-BOOSTER Soluble is mixed with water.

Add Feed Value To This Year's Silage By Reducing Costly Fermentation Losses

Maryland Hosts First Atlantic National Angus Show

BY SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondant

TIMONIUM, Md. — On Sunday, May 24, a ribbon cutting ceremony launched the Atlantic National Inaugural Angus Show. The new Angus event represents "the dreams and hard work of many Angus breeders, and promises to have a strong imprint on Angus history," according to those officiating at the ceremony.

The three-day event showcased the best of the breed from 15 states. Dameron Linedrive was named supreme champion by show judge, Ken Conway. The two-year-old bull, exhibited by Premier Angus, Cloverdale, Indiana, Gary Dameron, Lexington, Illinois, BLC Ranch, Shawnee, Oklahoma, and Riverside Farms, Hamilton, Texas, was sired by a son of Pine Drive Big Sky. A silver trophy was awarded to the owners of the winning bull, declared the best of the breed.

Dameron Linedrive was the grand champion bull in the show, and he edged out TC Peggy Sophia 5140 in the competition for supreme champ. The two-year-old cow was selected grand champion female of the show. Her exhibitors, Northcote Farm, Forest, Virginia, and B & L Properties, Fairfield, California, were named premier exhibitors, having totaled the most points during the three-day show. Gentry Homeplace Edella 504G with natural heifer calf at side was a contender for supreme champion, along with Cobble Pond Lolita with embryo transplant heifer calf. Both calves were sired by Waldeck Shocker.

Judge Conway said he considered "the frame, muscle, composition - the whole nine yards" when making his selection for the Best of the Breed. "We need to look at multiple trait selections," he added.

The bull show featured big, bold, black bovines - so big, in fact, that they were too large for the scales at the fairgrounds. The tall, long-framed bulls were too long to fit into the chute apparatus for weighing.

SCR Lone Star 411 was selected reserve grand champion bull with Dameron Linedrive taking the championship. His owners received a 55-pound bronze sculpture of an Angus bull, created by Lorann Garrety of Lancaster, Pa.

Lorann is currently working on a bronze Angus female to be presented to the show's champion female, TC Peggy Sophia. The unfinished model was on display during the show.

Champion of the junior show was Playful Lass, shown by John Bell of Georgetown, Kentucky. The show's reserve champion heifer was two-year-old GF Elaine, a Cobble Pond New Yorker daugher exhibited by Kelly Wagoner of Paris Kentucky.

Officials and participants in the show, declared it a success. Conway said, "This is going to be a power show for the future. It has been a great success. It shows what we can do when we work together for the betterment of the breed."

Judge Issues Ruling On Meat Council Case

DES MOINES, Iowa — The Court of International Trade in New York City has issued a procedural ruling on the court case brought by the Canadian Meat Council. Canada disputed the method of calculation used by the U.S. Department of Commerce when determining how much the subsidy of live Canadian hogs resulted in subsidies to fresh pork products, and asked that an import duty not be placed on fresh, chilled and frozen pork products exported from Canada to the U.S.

In a separate suit, the National Pork Producers Council has requested that a duty be placed on fresh pork products. That action is a result of an International Trade Commission ruling that federal and provincial subsidies on live hogs in Canada do not result in subsidies to packers of fresh products in Canada. NPPC disagrees, and therefore, appealed that decision in the CIT.

The procedural ruling means that if CIT Judge Dominick L. DiCarlo rules favorably on NPPC's suit, that subsidies on hogs result in subsidies to fresh product, then another method must be used by the U.S. Department of Commerce to calculate those subsidies.

NPPC President Tom Miller said that he is "looking forward to the final decision on the main thrust of our suit, but in the meantime, we will continue to work with the Commerce Department."

Miller added that he is "pleased that this procedural ruling will not have any effect on hogs going to market in the U.S. or on live hogs coming in from Canada."

Duroc Tops Sale

MAEC Schedules Performance Tested Boar, Ram Lamb Sales

STATE COLLEGE — The state's boar and ram lamb performance tests are now underway at the Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center in State College.

There are 20 pens of four boars each, which are placed on test from swine producers from throughout the state of Pennsylvania. This year there are nine pens of Yorkshires, five pens of Durocs, three pens of Hampshires and one pen each of Berkshire, Landrace and Spotted boars.

The four boars in a pen must be by one sire and out of one or two litters. The small boars must be delivered prior to reaching 80 days of age. They are given either a seven or 14 day adjustment period, depending on their size, and then they are weighed on official test.

Once on test the pigs have unlimited access to a self-feeder. The boars are weighed every 14 days and a progress report is generated for average daily gain, lifetime weight per day of age and pen feed efficiency.

When the pen average weight reaches 230 pounds the pen is taken off test and the boars are hand fed and exercised daily. The boars will have their final average daily gain calculated and ratioed, the days to 230 pounds will be computed and a final pen feed efficiency and ratio will be determined.

The boars will all be ultrasonically scanned to determine their backfat thickness and loin eye area. A percent lean cuts value will be determined for each boar and they will have to meet minimum requirements for soundness, underline, and scrotal development. Each boar will have his final index calculated from his average daily gain, feed efficiency and backfat thickness.

After all the evaluations the top 40 to 50 boars will be selected to be sold in Pennsylvania's 10th performance tested boar sale. The sale is scheduled for the Wednesday evening of Ag Progress Days, August 19 at 6 p.m. The sale will be held in the Ag Arena on the campus of Penn State University.

There were 65 ram lambs delivered on April 14. On April 21, after a 7 day adjustment period, the rams were weighed on test.

The test group consists of 28 junior Suffolks, 10 junior Dorsets, eight junior Hampshires, seven junior Polypays, two junior Columbias, one junior Corriedale, one junior Oxford, one junior Shropshire, six senior or fall-born Dorsets and one senior Hampshire. These rams will be weighed every 14 days and a progress report of their average daily gain and lifetime weight per day of age will be generated.

All of the rams will be managed under identical conditions and fed the same feed for the entire 84 day testing period. At the conclusion of the test the rams will have a final average daily gain and lifetime weight per day of age calculated. The rams will be scanned ultrasonically to determine fat thickness and an estimated loin eye area. The rams will be examined for breeding soundness, their scrotal circumference will be measured and a height measurement will be taken. They will be subjected to examination for soundness of mouth, structural soundness and black fiber content of the fleeces of the black-faced breeds.

The rams will then have a final index computed from their average daily gain, lifetime weight per day of age and fat thickness and approximately the top two-thirds of the rams will be offered for sale through Pennsylvania's 9th performance tested ram lamb sale, scheduled for August 1, at 1 p.m. in the Ag Arena. There will be an invitational ewe sale held in conjunction with the ram sale.

For more information on the performance testing programs and sales contact: Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Rd., State College, PA 16803 Phone: (814) 238-2527.

Avoiding Livestock Disease Full-Time Job

BY RICHARD BARCZEWSKI
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — "Disease" is a word that can strike fear in any intensive livestock producer. Each of us, at some time, has had a problem with one disease or another in our hog operation. Most of the time the outbreak has been minor, such as a mild scours outbreak or a slight case of MMA; however, on occasion, we might find ourselves right in the middle of a major outbreak.

Disease is the result of a combination of causative agents such as bacteria, viruses and possibly parasitic organisms that can be influenced by stress, nutritional inadequacies, environmental factors and management practices.

With some of the above-mentioned factors, certain preventative measures are available to combat the problem. For instance, vaccines are currently available for atrophic rhinitis, leptospirosis and erysipelas and many other health concerns.

In addition, there are several excellent internal and external parasite control materials on the market. The choice is yours, and you need to base your herd health program regarding vaccinations and deworming agents on herd needs and the cost of available control measures.

Disease can spread either directly or indirectly. Animals can pass disease-causing organisms to each other through direct contact. Infection can also be spread indirectly by way of clothing, boots, the hands of the caretaker, contaminated feed, water, utensils or even motor vehicles.

Animals that recover from a disease outbreak can also harbor and pass on the organisms to other animals. Therefore, depending on the disease, care must be taken to avoid any possible reinfection of the herd.

As mentioned earlier, an outbreak of disease can also be caused by stress or environmental factors. It is therefore very important to make sure your hogs are properly cared for, fed and housed to maintain maximum disease resistance.

Animals receiving diets that are lacking in one or more essential nutrients won't be able to fight off disease as well as pigs that are properly fed. In addition, factors such as overcrowding, improper temperatures and poor ventilation can all contribute to a disease outbreak.

Now that you know some of the causes of disease outbreaks and how they spread, let's look at some of the things you can do to prevent disease.

First and foremost, make sure your herd is adequately fed and housed. Ventilation systems should be operated at levels appropriate for the number of animals housed in your buildings.

Vacating facilities for a period of time between batches of animals (all-in-all-out), along with a thorough cleaning and disinfection of the premises, can help reduce the number of disease organisms. If possible, a 3- or 4-week interval is best. But even a few days will help — especially in the farrowing house and nursery.

The use of a footbath containing a disinfectant is another way to prevent disease outbreaks. Get in the habit of stepping into the footbath every time you enter your hog facility, and change the disinfectant whenever large amounts of manure and other organic matter build up in the footbath.

Wash and disinfect your sows before placing them in the farrowing house. Think of it as the maternity ward that it is and keep it as clean and germ-free as possible.

Remove dead animals at once, since they may harbor disease organisms. In cases where the cause of death is unknown, have your veterinarian perform a post-mortem examination on the carcass prior to its incineration or burial (three feet deep and covered with a large amount of hydrated lime). Post-mortem findings can provide you with information needed to prevent future outbreaks.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, isolate any new animals that you are introducing to your herd for a period of at least 30 days at a location at least 300 feet from any other hogs. Buy only healthy animals and limit the number of outside visitors that you allow in your hog operation. When you do have visitors, insist that they use the footbath or wear disposable plastic boots.

Avoiding disease is a full-time job and should be a daily concern. After a while the precautionary measures you employ will become second nature and a part of the daily routine on your farm. For more information on disease prevention consult PIH 79, "Environmental Sanitation and Management in Disease Prevention," in the Pork Industry Handbook.

Bob Wiker of Ronks, PA says his AgTec "retired" his Brand X Sprayer

"The other sprayer would not penetrate sweet corn and I had to save the crop. I talked to a neighbor about my problem and he said the AgTec was the only sprayer to use in sweet corn. So I bought the AgTec and it gave me what I needed in the field — penetration. I got the coverage I needed and I had clean corn."

"Then I tried it on my other crops — tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and brussel sprouts. Now I spray all 77 acres with Ag-Tec."

"I can't afford to use the other sprayer on my vegetables. The AgTec cuts the cost of chemical application and saves me time in the field which I can use elsewhere. That's a deal I'll take anytime."

Endowment Will Fund Search For Better Mushroom

UNIVERSITY PARK — Mushrooms are more than a popular topping for pizza.

Mushroom production was a $500 million business in the United States last year, and Penn State researchers are trying to keep the industry viable in the face of increasing competition from oversees.

"The basic canned domestic mushroom market is drastically reduced because it's been taken over by the cheap Oriental canned mushroom," said Dr. Lee C. Schisler, Penn State professor of plant pathology.

Consequently, researchers are hoping to improve the quality of the mushroom so that it is more suited for the fresh market and specialty processed products.

Penn State's search for a better mushroom is being spearheaded by a $1 million fund-raising effort to support mushroom research.

The endowment was established this spring with a gift from Ben Penturelli, owner of the Berks County-based Blue Mountain Mushroom Co., and Penturelli has been instrumental in getting other domestic mushroom growers to back the drive. Contributions now total nearly $400,000 and are increasing.

According to Schisler, the switch to a predominately fresh market has been difficult for domestic mushroom growers because just 15 years ago 70 percent of their crop went into the canned market. But an influx of cheap canned imports has completely reversed that trend, and U.S. mushroom producers are scrambling to keep pace.

"If there's a market and a communist country wants to get into it, and our government establishes a favored trending status with that country — as ours did with mainland China in the early 1980s — there's simply no way to compete," Schisler said.

While most previous mushroom research has concentrated on improving production, Schisler said this endowment will fund research devoted to improving the product itself.

He said the research will help find ways to grow mushrooms that are larger, more solid, tastier and don't deteriorate as rapidly — qualities that are especially important for fresh mushrooms.

Improving the ability to regulate the size of mushrooms is an important part of this research, he noted, not only because of the potential for increased consumer appeal, but also because of the economic advantage it provides growers in picking and packaging their product.

Penn State researchers will be exploring several methods of making a better mushroom. These range from improving common growing procedures to experimenting with recombinant DNA techniques.

"We're going to try to control such things as temperature, humidity, and watering practices in the house, as well as the types of composts and casings that are used in culturing the mushrooms," Schisler explained. "We're interested in looking at the different aspects of these relationships as to why you might get just a few larger mushrooms formed, or why you might get a whole lot of smaller mushrooms."

Researchers also will study the cellular composition of the mushroom during the different stages of growth, as well as how different mushroom diseases affect quality.

In addition, Schisler said researchers will employ recombinant DNA techniques to improve the genetic inheritance of the mushroom, emphasizing the use of viruses as a vector in this process.

Polled Hereford Show, Meeting Scheduled

STATE COLLEGE — The Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association Board of Directors will meet on Saturday, June 6, at 11 a.m. The meeting will take place at the Ag Arena, located near the Meat Animal Evaluation Center here at Penn State.

Following the Board of Directors meeting, the Junior Polled Hereford Association will be conducting its breed show. This event will begin at 1 p.m. at the Ag Arena. Anyone interested in Polled Hereford cattle is invited to attend and support this youth activity.

Show-Ease In President's Club

Show-Ease Badger of Lancaster has been selected for membership in Badger Northland's President's Club. Pictured is Badger president Murray Thorndycraft (right) congratulating Show-Ease service manager Tom Livengood on the honor at a recent Dealer Product Council meeting in Wisconsin. Show-Ease was one of 10 dealers in the country to achieve President's Club status based on sales volume of Badger products.

Atlantic Breeders Names New Supervisors

LANCASTER – Two recent changes among area supervisors for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative have been announced by Gary Heckman, Member Sales Director. Willis Ritchey of East Petersburg has moved from Atlantic's Area 1 (Southeast) responsibilities to those in Area 2 (South-Central/West).

Ritchey served very successfully as Area 1 supervisor for the past 15 months, Heckman said. During his 37-year career with Atlantic, Ritchey's experience includes technician, branch office manager, service manager, reproductive training, technician development, linear-mate, and South American sales. He was also Area 2 supervisor several years ago, and plans to relocate in southcentral Pennsylvania.

Jesse (Mike) Fleck of Manheim assumes the position of Area 1 supervisor, according to Heckman. Fleck has worked as a dairy farm herdsman, farm supply store assistant manager, and coordinator and technician for Atlantic.

Willis Ritchey

Jesse Fleck

Since January of 1986, he was Unit 17 technician in Lancaster County and compiled an outstanding performance record for business growth, high conception, and linear-mate usage. His replacement in this membership service unit is Jeffrey Peifer, who transferred from a Franklin County unit.

Continuing as supervisors in other Atlantic membership service areas are D. Carl Snyder, Dayton, in Area 3 (Allegheny); Robert Badger, Portersville, in Area 4 (West); and David Zimmerman, New Holland, in Area 6 (South-Central/East).

Cargill Merges 3 Seed Brands

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. – Cargill's Seed Division will consolidate its three seed brands – Cargill, Paymaster and PAG – into a single national brand effective June 1. The new brand will be Cargill Hybrid Seeds.

"A thorough analysis showed that consolidating the three brands and creating smaller sales territories would provide customers with an improved and more complete product line and better, more efficient service," said Bruce Priebe, division president.

In the past, Cargill researchers developed distinct hybrids for each brand, which in turn were marketed by separate sales organizations. The division's research staff, directed by Dr. Vernon Gracen, will now focus on developing hybrids for one product line. Priebe said the best products of the three brands will become part of the Cargill Hybrid Seeds product line for the 1988 planting season, providing better selection within all maturities.

All Paymaster, PAG and Cargill Seeds farmer dealers and distributors will have the opportunity to sell under the new single brand. Territory managers for the three brands have been assigned to new, smaller territories, Priebe said.

Priebe announced several personnel changes for the new national sales organization. Dick Johnson, vice president and currently Cargill Seeds general manager, will be director of sales. Sales regions will coincide with corn maturity zones in the northern, central and southern United States.

Dave Westphal, vice president and currently Paymaster Seeds general manager, will be director of marketing. Three product managers who are part of the new marketing section will include Dr. Jack Carlson, corn and alfalfa; Dr. Michael Cordonnier, sunflowers and sorghum; and Dr. Roy Johnson, cotton and wheat.

Dick Endres, vice president and currently PAG Seeds general manager, will be manager of customer services, which will provide special attention to all areas relating to improved dealer and customer satisfaction.

An agronomic services manager in each of the sales regions will focus on providing service that will allow farmers to get top yields consistent with the environmental conditions in their areas.

BACS Hires Crop Consultants

LITITZ – Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service recently hired Bruce W. Smith, Rochester, NY and Richard S. Kauffman, Columbia, Pa., as full-time crop consultants for the firm serving Lancaster, York, Lebanon, Berks, Lehigh, Northampton, Dauphin and Chester Counties.

Smith is a recent graduate of the Pennsylvania State University with a bachelor of science degree in Agronomy and a 1981 graduate of Ricks College with an associate of applied science degree in Horticulture. Smith has experience working with the Cooperative Extension Service in State College, as an extension agent assistant and the Yan Putte Seed Co. Rochester, NY.

Kauffman, a native of Lancaster County, earned a degree in International Agricultural Development from Iowa State University and Eastern Mennonite College. From September 1985 through July 1986 he lived in Ethiopia as manager of a horticulture development project sponsored by the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. In addition to experience with Northrup King, he has an extensive farm background.

Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, an independent agricultural consulting service since 1978, is a Lititz-based firm specializing in crop management, soil testing, and agri-chemical research.

Serving over 50,000 acres and 300 local growers, the goal of the business is to help the farmer economically increase crop production through the use of today's modern testing procedures, efficient use of fertilizers, proper use of manure, variety selections, crop rotations, weed and insect management and ag-chemical selections.

Brown Named VP At Red Wing

RED WING, Minn. – Patricia B. Brown has been promoted from marketing director to vice president, marketing, according to Lyle Warrington, president of Red Wing Business Systems.

As vice president, marketing, Brown will have the responsibility of providing long range direction for the marketing activities of the software company and for coordinating existing marketing efforts, including the company's marketing relationships with distributors. As such, she will also serve on Red Wing Business Systems executive committee which coordinates the company's research and development, production, distribution and marketing efforts.

Red Wing Business Systems is a leading producer of software programs for the financial management of rural America's businesses. The software is available from computer dealers nationwide.

New Steel Makes Manure Tanks More Durable

KAUKAUNA, Wisc. – New Badger Northland liquid manure tanks now feature Cor-Ten steel main wrap sheets and baffles. According to the company, Cor-Ten steel is 20 percent stronger than quarter-inch mild steel. And Cor-Ten products are five to eight times more resistant to corrosion than tanks built with quarter-inch mild steel. This is especially important in the construction of liquid manure tanks, where Cor-Ten proves highly resistant to manure acids.

Despite Cor-Ten's added endurance, it's not a heavyweight Badger tanks built with Cor-Ten steel actually weigh up to 10 percent less than those built with quarter-inch mild steel. This means lower fuel consumption and less strain and wear on wheels, spindles, undercarriage and tires as well as less soil compaction. And with Cor-Ten, tanks stay "looking like new" a lot longer.

Cor-Ten derives its strength from a number of alloys, including chromium, which when combined produce one of the strongest steels available. Its resistance to corrosion comes from quantities of copper, phosphorus and sulphur, materials not found in conventional steel. In fact, Cor-Ten is the steel used to build ship hulls, river barges and skyscrapers.

New Pinkeye Treatment Approved

NEW YORK – The FDA has approved Liquamycin LA-200 to treat pinkeye in beef and dairy cattle. Liquamycin LA-200, manufactured by Pfizer Inc., is a broad-spectrum antibiotic that delivers three days of antibiotic therapy with one injection.

"Producers and veterinarians now have a highly effective and convenient pinkeye treatment," says Dr. Van Ricketts, Pfizer veterinarian. "Extensive research has shown that a single intramuscular (hindquarter) injection of Liquamycin LA-200 speeds healing by controlling Moraxella bovis, the bacterium that causes pinkeye."

Pinkeye (Infectious Bovine Keratoconjunctivitis) is an acutely contagious and economically damaging eye disease that afflicts beef and dairy animals. Flies can spread the disease through the entire herd during summer months. USDA estimates show that pinkeye costs producers $150 million annually in lost weight gain and permanent eye damage.

"Irritants such as sunlight, dust, flies and dry stubble on pastures can initiate an active infection," says Dr. Ricketts. Pinkeye is most often seen in younger cattle and can occur in one or both eyes.

Prior to approval of Liquamycin LA-200, pinkeye treatments were limited to daily topical applications to the eye or difficult, unapproved subconjunctival injections of antibiotics and cortisone. "Liquamycin LA-200 represents a new therapeutic strategy for pinkeye," he adds. "It reduces the animal stress and additional labor costs associated with traditional treatments."

In addition to the new claim for treatment of pinkeye, Liquamycin LA-200 is approved for treatment of upper respiratory diseases, including pneumonia, in cattle and swine.

For additional information on Liquamycin LA-200 contact: Wendy Wehr, Pfizer Agricultural Division, 235 E. 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017.

Electronics Help Increase Farming Efficiency

RACINE, Wisc. — Specialized electronics on agricultural tractors, combines, sprayers and planters help farmers monitor field performance more precisely than ever before. The payoff is increased efficiency and profitability in farming operations.

Tractors

Today's electronics give tractors new capabilities and create better, less expensive ways to provide traditional functions.

The most powerful application of electronics is the addition of microprocessors and sensors to tractor instrumentation, including radar true ground speed sensors. Along with conventional instrument information, farmers can now see how many acres they have covered, how many acres they are working each hour and the true ground speed of the tractor.

True ground speed radar sensors measure the tractor's actual

Soil conditioning alters the physical properties of soil in ways that fight erosion, save water or improve plant growth.

The ingredients in Basic-H Concentrated Soil Conditioner have been shown to improve water infiltration, or penetration. This is generally known to have many possible benefits on farms, including improved soil aeration, reduced runoff, reduced erosion, water conservation and increased crop yields. The results you obtain depend on conditions in your own field and your farming practices.

Basic-H Concentrated Soil Conditioner may also enhance the relationship between water, soil and plants. This can help your farm in many ways, because the way that crops get water and nutrients depends on the way that water moves through soil.

Helps promote uniform water penetration

In carefully controlled field studies, Basic-H Concentrated Soil Conditioner substantially increased water infiltration, or penetration, on eight wettable soils. These experiments were all repeated five or six times, producing statistically significant results with a 95% confidence level. This means that the same results would be obtained in 19 out of every 20 experiments.

forward speed without the usual error caused by wheel slippage. The sensor's true ground speed measurement is compared electronically with drive axle speed and reported to the tractor operator in wheel slip percentages.

These calculations can keep fuel use and tire wear to a minimum by helping the operator adjust tractor loads and speed to the most efficient amount of wheel slippage, usually 10 to 15 percent in tillage conditions.

Applying chemicals is another operation where true ground speed provides vital information. The sensor enables the operator to adjust travel speed or chemical application rate to ensure consistent and accurate coverage over every acre.

Electronics also provide faster automatic draft control for a three-point hitch. "Electronic draft control eliminates a long list of linkages, valves and other parts. It creates a hitch capable of adjusting the draft on the tractor up to 20 times a second, which in turn saves fuel and speeds field work," says George Mueller, Case IH manager, agricultural product information and training.

In a similar fashion, transmission controls can be turned over to electronics to reduce complexity and improve shifting performance. Electronically controlled solenoids engage and disengage transmission components to find the appropriate set of clutch packs necessary to reach the gear selected by the tractor operator. Electronic transmission controls, which are unaffected by temperature, perform this task for the operator while maintaining full torque, providing very low shifting effort, predictable shifting characteristics, and simplified maintenance.

According to Ken Moehle, tractor product manager at Case IH, "The overall goal of tractor electronics is to reduce the workload on the tractor operator. Electronics can take over certain tasks, giving the farmer more time to watch for proper operations of implements."

Combines

Combine electronics coordinate the reel speed with the ground speed, control header height, check grain loss and monitor various parts of the machine for proper operation.

While combines have been used for years, electronic monitoring is relatively new. The major benefits are the increased income from reduced grain losses and the cost savings from increased productivity, according to Jim Wilkins, combine product manager for Case IH.

Through electronic monitoring, the combine operator continuously knows how well the combine is separating and cleaning grain. He has much of the information needed to adjust ground speed, rotor speed and fan speed to obtain the best performance.

The electronic control of reel speed on grain and soybean headers saves the combine operator from making continuous adjustments. As the ground speed is adjusted, the electronics change reel speed automatically to maintain the proper ratio of reel speed to ground speed.

Another complex operation now automated by electronics is the maintenance of soybean headers at a set height above the ground. This allows the bean header's floating cutter bar to hug the ground contour, saving more close-to-the-ground bean pods.

Planters

Many farmers choose six-, eight-, 12- or 16-row planters to help guarantee timely planting. At planting speeds of up to eight miles per hour, the potential for these planters to skip rows or place seed inaccurately increases without electronic monitoring.

As a result, electronic monitoring of planters is the most common application of agricultural electronics. It is widely adopted because it can virtually eliminate large and costly planting errors.

"Planting errors are a critical concern that can be significantly alleviated by electronic monitoring. It is so important that Case IH planters in the 900 Series now have electronic monitors as standard equipment," according to Joe Neville, Case IH crop production product supervisor.

Year-round Use

Electronics are in use year-round on the farm. Tractor electronics help operators maintain efficient wheel-slip settings during soil preparation in the fall and spring. Planting accuracy is constantly maintained with sensors and micro-processors that instantly report any seeding rate changes or skipped rows. In the summer and fall, crops are harvested with combines that save more grain and work faster because of electronic control and monitoring.

ABS Builds New Bull Barn

DEFOREST, Wisc. – American Breeders Service recently broke ground to lay the footings and pour cement for another bull rearing barn at their DeForest, Wisconsin facility.

When completed, the barn will accommodate 30 Progeny Test bulls that are part of ABS' expanding bull population. It will have an open front to the south and each bull will have his own 11-by-22-foot box stall. In total, the barn will be 356 feet long and 30 feet wide. It is being constructed at a cost of $370,000.

Progeny Test bulls are between one and five years of age. Semen is collected from them at about 12 months of age and used to inseminate a limited number of cows. The young bulls are then put on hold in the rearing barns until their daughters have been born, matured and have completed their first lactations. At this point, an evaluation can be made regarding each bull's ability to pass on the traits important to dairymen, to his offspring.

The decision is then made as to whether or not the bull becomes a part of the regular ABS breeding battery or is sent to slaughter. Currently, about one out of 10 bulls so tested survives this intense scrutiny. Over 200 dairy bulls are tested each year.

This new barn is the third of a series of four scheduled for the rearing complex. The additional space is necessary for ABS' projected growth in both the domestic and foreign markets.

World's Largest Sprayer Company Gets Bigger

HARDI NORTH AMERICA announces that its parent company, Hartvig Jensen & Co. of Copenhagen, Denmark, has consolidated its position as the world's largest sprayer manufacturer by the acquisition of EVRARD S.A. of France, one of the largest manufacturers of sprayers in Europe.

EVRARD is a leader in the area of large trailer sprayers, and has a full range of self-propelled equipment. The experience of EVRARD in developing this large equipment will complement HARDI's existing product range.

EVRARD S.A. will continue in their capacity as an independent company within the HARDI group, developing, manufacturing and marketing their product line and distributing through their existing distribution network in Europe.

With this important acquisition, we at ABC Groff, Inc., have confidence that the HARDI group, now and in the future, will have the best in crop protection equipment available.

Bottle Recycling Program Proposed

HARRISBURG — A limited statewide bottle recycling program, which could become a model for future container recycling efforts, has been proposed by state Rep. Kenneth E. Brandt.

Brandt, the House Republican Policy Committee chairman, said he will introduce legislation to create a beverage container recycling program within the state liquor system. "During the last fiscal year, more than 100 million beverage containers were sold through the state liquor system," said Brandt. "Those amounted to approximately 50,000 tons of recyclable glass — 50,000 tons of waste which could be kept out of landfills."

Brandt's measure would place a 50-cent deposit on each alcoholic beverage container, to be paid by consumers and redeemed upon return of the bottle to the liquor store. Bottles would then be returned to warehouses for disposal into recycling programs.

"Unlike grocery stores or supermarkets, our state stores rely on a central warehousing and transportation system," Brandt said. "This system would allow a centralized collection of empty containers for recycling as well. Trucks which transport alcoholic beverages from the warehouses to state stores can then pick up empties from the store to be returned to the warehouse."

Brandt's legislation would require the liquor agency to turn over used containers only to persons or organizations engaged in recycling activities.

Following some preliminary discussions with some Liquor Control Board officials, Brandt said he is hopeful that they will support his measure. The legislation has more than 20 co-sponsors.

Wake up your dairy herd with Purina® Maxi-Tech® Complete dairy feed!

Brand

Help your cows reach maximum production while maintaining body condition and butterfat levels. That's the Maxi-Tech difference.

Getting the most out of your cows, especially top producing ones, used to mean giving up one of two things: either butterfat levels dropped as production increased, or cows depleted internal energy stores and lost condition and ability to quickly breed back.

Now Purina Mills introduces a super high-energy, palatable complete dairy feed designed for producers with excellent management skills, high production goals and high profit expectations. New Purina® Maxi-Tech® brand Complete dairy feed makes the most of a dairy herd's capability by increasing milk production during early lactation, while increasing persistency. Maxi-Tech's unique formulation means milk production and butterfat levels move up together.

New Maxi-Tech Complete contains a nutritional balance of energy, protein, vitamins and minerals. Cows maintain body weight and condition, for better health and breeding.

And its palatability whets the appetite of top producing cows to help them reach new production goals.

When you want the most out of your cows, ask for Purina Maxi-Tech Complete dairy feed, exclusively from Purina Mills, Inc. See what the Maxi-Tech difference can do for you!

For dairy farmers using their own grain Purina® Maxi-Tech™ 40, and Purina Maxi-Tech™ 30 (for heavy legume feeding) are availble for your needs.
